HAVE YOU THE GRIPPE?

Many People Have It and Do No Know it.—How to Recognize the Symptoms and How to Treat Them.

Hundreds of people have the Grippe who do not know it. Not necessarily the final stages, but the first stages. They feel pains in the head, and a bad taste in the mouth, get tired and despondent, have chilly sensations, limbs and muscles ache. In some cases these things are overlooked. In most cases perhaps they are considered simply a slight cold. In nearly every case they indicate the coming of Grippe.

There is but one thing to do when these symptoms appear, and that is to take prompt and vigorous measures, to fortify nature to repel the enemy. A little well directed effort at just the right time will accomplish very much more than labored efforts afterwards. There is but one thing to be done, and that is to use a pure stimulant, something that will promptly arrest, and in no way injure, something endorsed by scientists, recommended by physicians, and popular because so efficient—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Two years ago, and last year when the Grippe was raging, this was the standard remedy used, and recommended by the profession. It did more to prevent the Grippe than all other known or recommended remedies. It preserved many people in health who would otherwise have been grievously sick, perhaps even worse. It is as efficient to-day as ever. It should be borne in mind that other so-called whiskies may not be so efficient, and if any dealer asserts that such whiskies are the same, distrust him at once. There is but one medicinal whiskey and that is Duffy's Pure Malt.

FIRE IN A TENEMENT.

An Overturned Lamp Does Great Damage.

A Number of the Imprisoned People Jump From the Windows and Roof and Are Badly Injured.

New York, Feb. 2.—Shortly after 10 o'clock last night an alarm was sent out for a fire at 89 Hester street, a five-story brick tenement house, and a call for four ambulances was sent out at the same time.

The blaze started from an overturned kerosene lamp in the apartments of Solomon Zolinski, on the second floor, and soon the three stories above were a mass of flames, and the tenants all in an awful panic.

The fire escapes were crowded, which added to the confusion. Some of the unfortunates sprang for their lives and others were knocked to the stone courtyard below from the fire escapes.

Two of them were undoubtedly fatally injured and four others are suffering from broken limbs and bruised heads.

When the first fire engine arrived some of the unfortunates had in their wild delirium hurled themselves into the yard below from the several floors on which they lived. Louis Kauffman lived on the third floor. With his affianced, Fanny Levi, he tried to escape by the staircase, but both were cut off by the flames. They ran to the fire escape, but were checked by the crowd of other tenants there. Then they went to the roof, from which they jumped, locked in each other's arms, to the courtyard below, where they fell bleeding and insensible.

Solomon Zolinski, who lives on the second floor, tried to save the Levi girl by catching her in his arms, but her weight crushed him and he fell to the ground with his leg broken. Kaufman's legs were both broken, his nose dislocated and his face horribly bruised. Fanny Levi had her right leg broken in three places, besides severe injuries to two of her right ribs.

Mrs. Ida Goldstein, the grandmother of little Frieda, 18 months old, threw the child out of a window into the courtyard. It struck on its head and will die.

Rebecca Ponerantz, a tailoress, 20 years old, fell from a fire escape on the fourth floor and her back was broken. She will die. The firemen soon got the flames under control. The total loss will be about $6,000.

COINAGE.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Coinage executed by the United States during January, 1892, was as follows: Gold, 760,000 pieces of the value of $1,590,000; silver, 4,592,000 pieces of the value of $1,165,000; minor coins, 4,786,000 pieces of the value of $90,500, making a total of 10,138,000 pieces of the value of $2,845,000.

AID FOR THE STARVING.

Ex-Governor Hoyt Doing What He Can.

He Thinks the West Should Furnish the Grain and the East Should Furnish the Transportation.

New York, Feb. 2.—Ex-Gov. John L. Hoyt, of Wyoming, came to New York yesterday from Washington to interest the government in sending grain to the starving people of Russia.

He was requested recently to form a committee of prominent men throughout the country which should give direction to the effort, now being made in a somewhat spasmodic way, to relieve the distress among that country's peasantry.

In response to that request Mr. Hoyt has communicated with Chauncey M. Depew, George W. Childs, the mayors of this city, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other large cities, and the presidents of the large transportation lines inviting them to act on the proposed national committee.

He said to-day that he anticipated acceptances from the gentleman to whom he had written, and that the committee would soon set to work.

His idea is that the west should furnish the grain and the east ought to provide the means of transporting it.

Mr. Hoyt will go to Philadelphia to-day to attend a meeting called by the business men there to inaugurate the movement.

HER DECKS AWASH

And Her Hold Full of Water,

The Eider Was Abandoned To-Day.

Futile Attempts to Save the Steamer.

The Ship Has Commenced to Break Up.

All the Passengers and Mail Safely Landed After a Hard Battle with the Ever Increasing Breakers — Specie Aboard.

London, Feb. 2.—There now seems to be more than a probability that the steamship Eider, which is on the rocks at Atherfield, Isle of Wight, will become a total loss.

It was hoped last night that the government and other tugs would be able to pull the Eider off at midnight, but all attempts in that direction have failed.

Throughout the night a high wind prevailed, raising a heavy sea which caused high breakers to sweep almost continually over the steamer.

The result is that her position this morning has changed decidedly for the worse. Her propeller has been carried away and the size of the leak in her bottom has increased, and the water is gaining.

The lifeboats were got ready to take off the crew when the word to abandon the ship should be given. The wind is blowing fresh and threatens a gale.

There is just one more chance of saving the Eider, the next floodtide, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. If the tugs do not float her then all hope of saving her may be abandoned.

As this dispatch is cabled, nearly all hope of saving the Eider may be said to have been abandoned.

Seventy-six bags of mail have now been landed and a number of the crew have also been sent ashore in the local lifeboats.

The Eider's lifeboats have been launched and are alongside of her, ready to take off the remainder of the crew. The sea is breaking furiously over the unfortunate steamer and wreckage from her is being washed ashore. She is now full of water.

The captain of the Eider took precaution to save the large amount of money which was being shipped by the steamer. He gave orders to have it carried from the place where it was stored to the deck, and a large number of bags containing in all $300,000 in specie were soon piled on the deck on the side of the vessel facing the shore. The big heap of money was so arranged as to be ready should the necessity arise, to be at once sunk in a safe place among the rocks where it could afterwards be recovered easily by divers.

Capt. Addison, one of the passengers of the Eider, in giving an account of the accident, said that the captain of the Eider calculated that the vessel was a few miles to the westward of the Needles, a cluster of three rocks in the west of the Isle of Wight. The steamer struck Atherfield ledge just as the lead was being heaved. A sounding taken only five minutes previously had indicated 10 fathoms of water. Neither the Needles' light nor the St. Catherine's light were visible when the Eider struck.

Acting, it is believed, under instructions from the agents of the company, the officers of the Eider refuse to give any explanation of the disaster, further than to say that Sunday night was so very foggy that they were unable to see any of the lights on the English coast while making their way up channel.

At a rough estimate the cargo of the Eider is valued at about $80,000, not including the specie, which will be saved. The steamship is valued at about $700,000 dollars. Both vessel and cargo are fully insured.

DOWN WITH THE TYRANTS

Sensational Reports Concerning Garza.

He is Still a Power Among the Rebels.

The Widow of Gen. Martinez Tells of the Progress of the Movement and the Object to be Attained.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 2.—The news from the upper part of the Rio Grande border concerning the movements of the revolutionary force said to be under command of Catarino Garza, in the state of Coahuila, has been very meagre during the past 48 hours.

The widow of the late Gen. Ignacio Martinez is publishing a Spanish paper called El Mundo in Laredo. The issue of Saturday contains a revolutionary article of deep interest, embracing some sensational news. The translation reads as follows:

The intrepid Garza is organizing his army in the states of Tamaulipas and Coahuila, where all the people are in sympathy with his cause, and, according to reports, the states of Vera Cruz, Puebla and Guanajuato are preparing their proposed revolt with extraordinary activity.

It is a fact that capitalists and military men of ability are interested in the revolution, but are afraid of appearing before the public as enemies of the government. They will not openly declare their position until a more favorable opportunity occurs.

It is learned on reliable authority that a relative of the private secretary of President Diaz received as an answer to a query whether or not it was safe for him to change residence and take his family to the capital a letter in which the secretary stated that under no circumstances ought he to do so, and that he was in a better position the nearer he was to the frontier until the present difficulty is settled. This demonstrates that in government circles peace is not regarded as certain and also manifests the eagerness of the people to join Garza.

The thousands of revolutionists which the American troops are attempting to scatter and prevent their reorganization are under the command of the brave Gen. Benevides, and not under the command of Garza, as the general public think. Garza is in the state of Coahuila, at the head of from 3,000 to 5,000 men.

President Porfirio Diaz, through the minister at Washington, has given permission for the American troops to pass into Mexican territory in pursuit of the revolutionists, and asked that Mexican troops be permitted to cross the Rio Grande when the revolutionists are encamped on American soil.

Secretary Blaine promised to consider this proposition, but up to the present time he has made no answer. This action on the part of President Diaz has increased the antipathy of citizens of both countries, for the Texans threaten to kill every Mexican soldier that crosses to this side, and the Mexicans say they will not allow the American troops on the Mexican side.

All these circumstances have given Garza a chance to increase the number of his friends and followers, who, according to reports, are as abundant as moisture in the air. It is all the time increasing, and his cause is made the stronger, notwithstanding the activity of the Mexican government. There is no doubt but that the Mexican people with few exceptions are dissatisfied with the present administration. Onward, people! The hour of restoraton is near. Hail to the sacred rights of the people! Down with tyrants!

WON THEIR POINT.

Decision in the Indianapolis Street Car Strike.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—The board of arbitration which was chosen to settle the differences that caused the street car tie-up here three weeks ago, rendered a decision to-day, conceded to be a victory for the strikers.

The board finds that the company could withdraw the pass badges, but that it could not do so under the contract of employment without providing other compensation for extra labor required of the men.

The unqualified recall of these badges precipitated the strike.

The matter of extra compensation is still open for mutual arrangement between President Frenzel and the Brotherhood.

DEAD BOY IN HIS ARMS

Sad Scene in the St. Louis Morgue.

The Shadow of Death With Unusual Sadness.

A Russian Refugee, Fleeing From the Land of Starvation, is Overtaken by Grief and Almost Crazed.

St. Louis, Feb. 2.—A man about 35 years old, carrying the dead body of a little boy, staggered into the morgue about 8 o'clock last evening, and amid sobs requested the attendant, Deputy Superintendent Charles Jenkins, to relieve him of his ghastly burden.

His story was a simple but sad one of a man who, unable to longer support his family in Europe, was compelled to seek a new home in America.

Just when a brighter future had dawned before them after traveling over stormy seas and meeting with many misfortunes, all his happy dreams were dissipated by the sudden appearance of death with its attendant sadness.

The name of the unfortunate man was Frederick Kanzler. He was on his way with his family from Kulb, Russia, to Hastings, Neb. The child, which was 5 years old, died several hours before he arrived at the morgue.

The family was on a "Big Four" passenger train at the time of the death of the little one. The grief-stricken parents were almost entirely without money, and, as a consequence, were unable to properly care for the body.

The corpse of the child was tenderly taken from the arms of the heart-broken man by Morgue Superintendent Jenkins and placed upon a slab. As the winding sheet was about to be drawn over the lifeless form, forever hiding the small face from the eyes of the father, he was overcome by grief.

With a wild shriek Kanzler fell upon the small figure and hugging it closely to his breast moaned pitifully. The man would probably have become insane with grief had not Deputy Superintendent Jenkins, who was a silent spectator to the sad scene, kindly but forcibly compelled the mourner to leave the presence of the dead.

Kanzler staggered out of the morgue and returned to the other members of his family, who were awaiting his return, huddled together in a corner of the waiting room at the Union depot. The little group, which consisted of Kanzler, his wife and two children, owing to their peculiar attire, was the center of attraction of a large throng.

Their sorrow was respected even by the curious crowd. The night was passed by them in the corner, the family being unable to continue their journey, as the father had to remain in the city until to-day, so that he can testify as to the cause of the death of the child at the coronial inquest.

A year ago Kanzler was a prosperous farmer in Kulb, which is a small town in the southern part of Russia. His farm contained 20 acres. Last spring he sowed with the hope of reaping a rich harvest. The crop failed, and Kanzler, with thousands of others, found himself on the verge of starvation.

He was obliged to sell his farm and come to the United States. While crossing the ocean his youngest child was seized with seasickness. At New York the family was obliged to remain two weeks to give the child a chance to improve enough for the journey to the home. When well on their way the child suffered a relapse. Death came to it when near Litchfield, Ill.

FAMINE TYPHUS.

Terrible Reports Come From Russia.

The Hospitals at Odessa Crowded with Patients Made Sick by the Pangs of Hunger.

London, Feb. 2.—The Odessa correspondent of the Daily News says: "Hunger typhus is spreading alarmingly. In large towns in this region all the hospitals are filled, and private buildings are being converted into hospitals. This is the state of affairs in Moskooskia and Viedomosti.

"A correspondent writing from Riasan declares that the more fanatical and superstitious portion of the peasantry believe that Count Tolstoi is Anti-christ and decline to accept his bounty for fear that they will thus commit their souls to perdition."

SHE'S A LIVING AQUARIUM.

Shoal of Lizards in a Woman's Stomach.

She Swallowed Them While Drinking When a Child and Could Never Throw Them Off.

New York, Feb. 2.—All that Mrs. Dora Miller, of No. 139 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, E. D., needs to be a living aquarium is a supply of goldfish and a couple of eels. There is a shoal of lizards in her stomach already, and the case is a source of great anxiety in the household.

Mrs. Miller is a widow about 40 years old. She is stout and strong and to all appearances perfectly healthy. Indeed, she says she would be all right if it were not for her troublesome visitors. Mentally she appears as sound as a dollar.

She converses readily, interrupted only by a sudden twitch when one of the reptiles turns a flip-flap or does a back somersault in a moment of play.

"The lizards have been in my stomach since I was a child," said Mrs. Miller "and they have troubled me ever since. However, it is only recently that they have made me fearful as to the result.

"When a girl I lived near Baunach, Germany. My father was a farmer and I used to help him during harvest time. Out in the field one day during harvest time I drank some water out of a spring. When I finished I felt a tickling sensation in my stomach and I looked at the water closely. To my horror there were a great many small lizards in the spring and I knew I had swallowed some.

"It made me deathly sick and I told my father and mother. They gave me strong emetic, but it failed to bring up the lizards. Then they took me to see the doctors, but they could do me no good."

Here one of Mrs. Miller's daughters broke in, "Mamma can't eat anything at all. Some times she wakes us up in the middle of the night and we have to put hot water on——" "Lizzie," interrupted the mother. Miss Lizzie remained quiet, and the use of hot water as a means of pacifying obstreperous lizards was not further explained.

"I came to America several years ago and visited several hospitals in search of relief. Some of the physicians advised me to fast, and for as long as two weeks at a time I would go without food.

"If I seemed to eat heartily they seemed to annoy me worse than ever. Often they crawl up in my throat, and I feel like I could take hold of them, but they slip back again, and I can feel them as they do it. Oh, it is horrible.

"They tickle me so I have to cough, and I often feel their legs crawling against my ribs. I don't think anything can be done for me. It is only a question of time before my heart will be touched by one of the lizards, and then I will die. The agony I suffer is terrible and most acute. There is no relief for me. They tell me it is nothing but indigestion, but I know better than that."

Miss Lizzie corroborated her mother's story. She said the neighbors would tell the same story of Mrs. Miller's sufferings. But the young lady does not seem to have much dread of her mother dying. "I know that she suffers and is very ill at times," she said, "but I think there is some way of getting those horrid things out. Mamma has lived this long, and I don't think they will be the cause of her death any time soon."

PROHIBITION IN MISSOURI?

Never! While They Keep the Present Brand of Whisky.

Wonderful Snake Election Held in the Ozark Mountains, and It Was a Poor Day for Serpents.

Ozark, Mo., Feb. 2.—In some parts of the Ozark regions there are more rocks and snakes than in any other country on top of the earth. A species of black snake, rather large, but not at all vicious, simply overruns everything. A few days ago a gentleman had occasion to visit a part of this unfrequented region. He says that he had never dreamed of the number of snakes that he saw there. It was a bright, warm day, notwithstanding the fact that it was midwinter. A few yards in front of him, in a little valley, there were thousand upon thousand of snakes gathered.

They were divided into two bodies and seemed to be having some kind of a contest. It looked like an election more than anything else. At one end a dozen or more extra large snakes were gathered, coiled up, with heads sticking up and necks darting this way and that. In front of them lay two enormous black snakes stretched out to their utmost and wriggling their tails as if to make themselves larger.

Finally, one of them moved away as if defeated and the other immediately coiled up hissing as if in victory. A moment later there came out of the crowd of snakes another great big fellow. He glided rapidly forward and lay down beside the other snake who had resumed his position stretched out at length. Again and again this took place, and after each snake had come and gone the big fellow would coil up and stick out his tongue.

After an hour of this the snakes of one side all coiled up and hissed and hissed away, making a noise that might have been heard a block. And then the old snake that had seemed to out measure all the others placed himself at the head of the column and away they went.

If snakes ever choose a leader the black snakes of the Ozarks do so by measurement, and the traveller had witnessed one of these strange elections.

HIS NAME WAS O'GRADY,

And He Was Not a "Bloody Britisher."

Canadian Residents Take Up a Collection to Buy the Ship Glendon a Flag of the United States.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—To-night's Canadian Pacific express for St. John, N. B., will carry to that city a parcel addressed to Capt. O'Grady, of the British ship Glendon, who refused to haul down his colors in Bridgeport, Conn., on Sunday, at the demand of an angry and excited mob, largely composed of state militia.

This parcel contains a bran new Union jack which was purchased by a number of maritime province people living in Montreal as well as by subscription from Montrealers. So great was the desire to subscribe to this testimonial that the amount for each had to be placed at a very low figure and the number of persons subscribing had to be limited. There was considerable amusement here at the efforts of the American press to give the Bridgeport incident an English twist by reporting the name of the captain of the Glendon as "Trowbridge," when as a matter of fact it was O'Grady.

GROVER COMING WEST.

A public reception will be tendered him in the city of Detroit on the 23d.

He Never Informed This Government That He Had Been Given Safe Conduct for the Refugees.

London, Feb. 2.—The Santiago correspondent of the Times asserts that Minister Egan did receive safe conduct for refugees who had sought the asylum of the United States legation, and that he never informed his government of the fact.

RUSSELL SAGE, SECOND,

Believed by His Friends to be Dying.

He Has Never Recovered From the Shock of the Dynamite Explosion Some Weeks Ago.

New York, Feb. 2.—The Times says: Russell Sage, 2nd, is dying. He is the nephew of the famous Wall street millionaire of the same name and has been regarded as likely to become his chief heir.

His sickness dates from the explosion in his uncle's office. His physicians say there is but slight hope of his recovery.

BILLS BY THE BUSHEL

To be Introduced and Passed at Columbus.

Amendments to the Secret Ballot Law.

Judicial Gerrymander Gossip—Another Congressional Bill—General News From Columbus.

Columbus, Feb. 2.—(Special)—The republican senators are somewhat uneasy over the delay that has been allowed to pass without a redistricting bill having been passed, so they are in consultation to-day in groups of three and five arranging a measure that will be passed some time this week, without holding a general caucus.

The fellows that want to look out for Judge Thompson and Gen. Enochs will take the Carpenter bill, introduced some time ago, as the foundation for the new bill that is being prepared and several senators say it will be passed this week.

Mr. Lampson is the most anxious, as he desires to succeed Judge Taylor in the old Garfield district. While the senate is eager for the passage of such a law the members of the house are continually dropping new schemes into the hopper.

The following was introduced yesterday afternoon by Representative Southard:

First district—First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Eighteenth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh wards of Cincinnati and the townships of Anderson, Columbiana Spencer Symmes and Sycamore and Avondale and the northeast, southeast, St. Bernard, Band Hill and Elmwood precincts of Meet Creek township.

Second district—The balance of Hamilton county not contained in First.

Third district—Miami, Montgomery and Preble counties.

Fourth district—Darke, Shelby, Mercer, Auglaize and Allen.

Fifth district—Van Wert, Putnam, Henry, Paulding, Defiance and Williams.

Sixth district—Fulton, Lucas, Wood and Ottawa.

Seventh district—Butler, Warren, Clermont, Greene and Clinton.

Eighth district—Logan, Champaign, Clark, Madison and Fayette.

Ninth district—Hancock, Hardin, Morrow, Delaware and Union.

Tenth district—Wyandot, Crawford, Seneca, Sandusky, Erie.

Eleventh district—Lawrence, Gallia, Jackson, Vinton, Hocking, Perry, Scioto.

Twelfth—Ross, Highland, Pike, Brown, Adams, Pickaway.

Thirteenth—Franklin, Licking and Fairfield.

Fourteenth—Lorain, Huron, Ashland, Richland and Knox.

Fifteenth—Morgan, Noble, Guernsey, Washington, Athens and Meigs.

Sixteenth—Muskingum, Coshocton, Tuscarawas, Holmes, Wayne.

Seventeenth—Carroll, Jefferson, Harrison, Belmont, Monroe.

Eighteenth—Mahoning, Columbiana and Stark.

Nineteenth—Ashtabula, Trumbull, Geauga, Portage and Summit.

Twentieth—The 7, 8, 9, 13, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27 wards, Cleveland, and the townships of Bedford, Chagrin Falls, East Cleveland, Euclid, Independence, Mayfield, Newburg, Orange, Solon and Warrenville and Cuyahoga county and county of Lake.

Twenty-first—The 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 14, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40th wards of Cleveland and the townships of Brechsville, Brooklyn, Doner, Middlehing, Olmstead, Parma, Rockport, Royalton, Strongsville, of Cuyahoga county and the county of Medina.

An Important Insurance Bill.

Senator Shaw introduced a bill in the senate yesterday afternoon to regulate the payment of life insurance policies. Section 1 provides that no policy of life or endowment insurance issued to a citizen of this state after the first of June, 1892, by any company authorized to do business in this state, shall become forfeited for non-payment of premiums after two full annual premiums have been paid thereon, in cash, or note, or both; but upon default in a subsequent premium such policy shall become subject to the provisions of this law notwithstanding policy may have certain conditions relating to forfeiture of same.

Section 2 provides that in case of default of the payment of a third or of any subsequent annual premium of any such policy, then, without further negotiation or stipulation, such policy shall be binding upon the company for an amount of paid-up insurance which the then net value of the policy has.

Representative Wanzer has introduced the following bill:

Sec. 6900a. Whosoever attempts, either by request or suggestion, to influence for himself or for another, the choice of any member or members of the general assembly after the date of their election to the same, for or against any person or candidate mentioned or proposed for election to the United States senate, shall be fined for each and every offense, not less than $200 nor more than $500. A person convicted under this section is disqualified from holding any public office of trust or profit under the authority of this state for five years thereafter; and if at the time holding such position, he shall be removed from office or employment by order of the court.

The act takes effect from and after its passage.

H. B., Mr. Sterrett—Amending section 2113 so as to make the creation of health boards in cities having more than 500 inhabitants compulsory and giving the councils of said villages and cities the right of selecting persons, irrespective of their profession, as members of the same.

Judicial Gerrymander.

The house portion of the committee having in charge the judicial gerrymander of the state is hard at work and it is expected that to-night the sub-committee will make a report to the full committee.

The districts under the bill that it is proposed to pass have been increased from ten to fourteen, making an additional expense to the state of $36,000 per year.

Better Fire Escapes.

Chief Inspector of Shops and Factories W. Z. McDonald, has written a letter to Mayor George J. Karb, requesting this official to use his authority in enforcement of the statutes relating to the placing of fire escapes on all buildings in this city, the owners of which have been ordered to put their buildings in condition for the safety of all occupants.

Mr. McDonald has also notified the board of education that fire escapes must be placed on a number of school houses, which he names. He also gives a large list of buildings that should also comply with the law.

Township Boards of Education.

Shortly after the legislature organized dispatches to the Bee announced the fact that Representative Workman, of Hardin, was preparing a bill that provided for the abolition of all local boards of school directors and that a township board of education shall be established. It also provides that the township board shall be composed of one member from each sub-district, to be elected by the people of the the several districts. All teachers employed, management and complete control of all details are placed in the hands of the township board. This bill has been indorsed by the State Teachers' association and it is more than probable that the bill will be introduced this afternoon.

Two Bills Passed.

Senator Nichol's bill authorizing the canal commission and the board of public works to lease oil and gas lands to the highest bidder, after being advertised for 15 days, passed the senate this morning.

Mr. Kelly's bill to better carry out the laws regulating the construction and repair of ditches, drains and water courses in Ottawa county passed the senate.

After dinner, if you have discomfort and suffering, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, or Anti-Bilious Granules. They're made to assist Nature in her own way—quietly, but thoroughly. What the old-fashioned pill did forcibly, these do mildly and gently. They do more, too. Their effects are lasting; they regulate the system, as well as cleanse and renovate it. One little Pellet's a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, cheapest, the easiest to take. Unequaled as a Liver Pill. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

Put up in sealed vials—a perfect vest-pocket remedy, always fresh and reliable.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more?

A BIG WRECK

On the Lake Shore at Elmore.

Seven Cars Burned and the Track Badly Torn Up—Engineer and Fireman Badly Hurt.

Early this morning a collision occurred on the Lake Shore road at Elmore. The caboose of the local freight was run into by the fast freight, almost completely demolishing the same.

The wreck is one of the worst suffered for some years, amounting to thousands of dollars.

Seven cars loaded with twine caught fire and were destroyed.

Several other cars were smashed and the track badly torn up.

The engineer and fireman were badly injured and were brought to their homes in Toledo about 2 o'clock this afternoon. They are not injured so as to cause death.

Travel was delayed for several hours, but the tracks are now clear.

WITHDREW HIS CASE.

Easton, Pa., Feb. 2.—Preston M. Gernet, of Bethlehem, a young member of the Northampton county bar, shot himself in the court house this morning just as the second days' trial of a suit against him for embezzling funds coming into his hands as an attorney was beginning. He cannot recover.

FOUR WERE DROWNED.

Dublin, Feb. 2.—A boat belonging to H. M. S. Belle Isle, the coast guards vessel at Kingstown, foundered this morning in Dublin bay, drowning four of her crew.

THE PRESS VICTORIOUS.

TO REPRESENT SWITZERLAND.

Berne, Feb. 2.—Mr. Holinger, a banker of this city, has been appointed consul for Switzerland at Chicago.

BRIGHT SHINING STARS

To be Added to the Union of the Flag.

Four States to Knock at the Door.

Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Oklahoma Want to Come Into the Great American Sisterhood.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Statehood. That is what the four remaining territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Oklahoma are now striving for. The first three are democratic and the last is republican. If the political division was more equal the chances of success would be better. As it is, there is little doubt that a democratic house will pass enabling bills for three, if not all of the number.

But the quartet of territories must run the gantlet of a republican senate before their ambition is satisfied, and the prospect for favorable action in that quarter is not flattering.

Four years ago a democratic house passed a bill admitting the two Dakotas, Washington and Montana to the sisterhood of states. It was known at the time that the Dakotas and Washington were safely, overwhelmingly republican, and that Montana was a doubtful quantity politically. But it was felt that each of the number possessed the population and other qualifications necessary for statehood, and it was thought to be an injustice to keep them longer under a territorial form of government.

One of the most distinguished democrats in public life then living, Mr. Samuel S. Cox, of New York, was one of the sturdy champions of the bill, and it was mainly through his efforts that the democrats of the house were induced to give it their support.

The interesting question now is, Is there a republican Samuel S. Cox in the senate who will do as much for the democratic territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah? It is doubtful.

The big republican majority of 14 in the senate has been reduced to eight during the last year by the election of three democratic senators, Messrs. Palmer, of Illinois; Vilas, of Wisconsin, and Hill, of New York, and it would be reduced to a practical minimum by the admission of three democratic territories possessing a representation of six. It is for this reason that the friends of the territories feel that the republican senate will look coldly on their aspirations.

It is quite probable, however, that when the bills come before the senate some of the republicans from such of the new states as have been admitted during the last two years will vote for them, notwithstanding the political advantage the democrats will derive from it.

It is believed here that the eight senators from Idaho, Wyoming, Montana and Washington, all of whom are republicans, will lend their efforts to pass the bills. They could hardly do otherwise. The argument advanced by them when their own states were knocking for admission, was that politics ought to cut no figure in the matter; that they possessed all the requisites of statehood; that their people at home, democrats as well as republicans, favored the proposition, and that it was unjust to keep them out simply because one of the two parties might enjoy a temporary advantage. These arguments will now be turned upon these gentlemen, and unless they are willing to stultify themselves they must, it is contended, give their adhesion to the bills now before the two houses of congress. If this be done three of the bills, those providing admission for Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, will probably pass. Their fate, however, lies in the hands of the republican senators from the recently admitted states. These hold the balance of power.

There is some doubt about the advisability of conferring statehood upon Utah. The territory has a population of considerably more than two hundred thousand souls. It is filled with valuable mineral lands, and its population in point of intelligence and wealth is equal to that of Washington.

There is some fear, however, that the conference of statehood might result in a union of the Mormons, who are still the controlling element in the territory, to so amend the state constitution as to permit a continuance of the practice of polygamy.

While this fear I find is very general among democratic legislators it is not shared by the gentiles, as the non-Mormons of the territory are called. As a matter of fact the bill now before congress to give Utah an enabling act was prepared by the republicans of the territory, and its introduction both in the house and in the senate was at the hands of republicans. The democrats, on the contrary, are almost unanimous in support of a bill which was introduced in the house by Delegate Caine and in the senate by Mr. Faulkner, of West Virginia, to give the people of the territory home rule, or local self-government only. The indications are that this latter measure will find more favor among congressmen of both shades of political belief that the statehood bill, and the outlook for its passage is rather favorable.

Eliminating Utah from the list, therefore, there still remain the two democratic territories of Arizona and New Mexico and the republican territory of Oklahoma. This makes the political division somewhat more satisfactory to the republicans, and it will not be without its influence upon their consideration.

Delegate Smith, of Arizona, will appear before the house committee on territories on Wednesday, in support of the bill admitting that territory to statehood. Within the fortnight following similar arguments will be made by the other territorial delegates.

"I feel quite hopeful," said Delegate Smith, "about Arizona's chances of becoming a full-fledged member of the federal union. I have talked with the members of the house committee on territories, and am confident after their hearing my argument, that they will report favorably to the house my bill admitting Arizona to statehood.

"From what I can learn it is not probable that the senate committee on territories will act adversely. Having admitted Idaho and Wyoming, they can advance no good reason for declining to do full justice to Arizona. I have every confidence that the senate will pass the bill."

Delegate Josephs, of New Mexico, feels confident that the house will pass an enabling act for the admission of his territory. "You see," he said, "this is the fourth time I have gone before the senate committee on territories in support of the admission of New Mexico. The experience of the past hardly justifies confidence in the future. Heretofore it has been impossible to get the senate committee to take action of any kind.

"Chairman Platt simply exercised the senatorial prerogative of a pocket veto. He never even called the matter to the attention of the full committee. It may be that Mr. Platt has undergone a change of heart, as it were, since last session. But I fear not.

"It does seem unjust that it should be in the power of one man to defeat the will of the United States senate by simply shoving a bill reported to the committee of which he is chairman, into his pocket and keeping it there. Senator Platt knows well that even should his committee report adversely the enabling act for New Mexico the senate would pass it.

"I have very little hope, however, of seeing New Mexico admitted to the union at this congress. If any action is taken by the senate committee it will be favorable, for Mr. Platt would not care to have the senate go back on him. The democrats would vote for the admission of New Mexico as a matter of course, and their votes, together with the senators from the newly made states, the bill would go to the president and become a law."

"I have good reasons for believing that Oklahoma will be admitted to statehood by this congress," said Delegate Harvey to-day. "As I understand it, the democrats will pass enabling acts for New Mexico and Arizona, both of which give democratic majorities. They cannot hope that the republican senate will consent to the admission of two democratic territories, unless the house does justice to Oklahoma. As a pure matter of politics, therefore, the house will pass the Oklahoma act at the same time they pass New Mexico and Arizona. From what I can learn the senate is inclined to do the same."

A BATTLE WITH OUTLAWS.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Seriously Injured.

Two of the Desperadoes Killed After a Desperate and Bloody Battle.

Paris, Tex., Feb. 2.—News reached here yesterday of a terrible battle at Brunertown, in the Creek nation, last Friday, in which Esna Gordon and Case Bruner were killed by Deputy United States marshals, and Deputy Marshal McCall was seriously wounded.

The officers had surrounded a number of outlaws at Bruner's house when the fight began. The officers were outnumbered and at a disadvantage, as the outlaws fired from the shelter of the house.

After some firing Bruner and Gordon charged on the officers. As they came up they were shot down and McCall was wounded in the thigh. This only made the others more desperate and the officers were compelled to retire. Reinforcements were secured and the officers returned, but the gang had gone in the direction of the Pottawatomie country.

BANK ROBBERY.

Addison, N. Y., Feb. 2.—The Bank of Addison was robbed Sunday night. The robbers succeeded in opening the vault but not the safe, and obtained $500 in currency and $200 in gold.

From the appearance of things the authorities are satisfied it was the work of experts. A reward of $200 is offered for the apprehension of the thieves.

SAYS HE'S GUILTY.

Dayton, O., Feb. 2.—Anderson Hurliss, who, with Fritzie Dhien and Mrs. Higbee, is under indictment for robbing R. A. Kranig, traveling salesman for Herman Keck & Co., the Cincinnati jewelers, of his case of diamonds in this city, has pleaded guilty.

STOLE THREE DOLLARS.

Tiffin, O., Feb. 2.—(Special)—A noonday burglary occurred in the Baltimore & Ohio passenger depot yesterday, but the thief secured only $3.

THE RESULTS

Which Follow the Prevailing Epidemic of La Grippe.

Evidence Substantiating Dr. Copeland and Associates' Claims as Successful Specialists—Mr. Sandberg's Testimony.

There is one bad result which follows la grippe, that is, the numerous cases of chronic catarrh and bronchitis that will remain as a reminder of la grippe's baleful influence. The press has made so light of the danger, that the people as a rule, think there is none. They stay in the house for a day or two and then go about their business as usual in spite of the sneezing and coughing. They do not realize what this sneezing and coughing may lead to. A chronic catarrh, a chronic bronchitis, possibly a pneumonia, followed by consumption, may result from their thoughtlessness. The effects of such an epidemic as we are passing through, last for weeks and months and cost the people thousands of dollars, not only in loss of health, but in actual money paid out to rid themselves of ills consequent upon their carelessness, and which a few more days' stay in the house would have saved them.

"Catarrh is a little thing at first, but may eventuate in terrible suffering. We all know what a cold in the head is, and when we catch one we look forward to the usual nine days of coughing and sneezing and blowing our noses. But now imagine that cold constant, continually with us, growing worse steadily and with no hope that in nine days we shall be rid of it, but knowing that it will be our constant and faithful companion for life if we do not get it cured—THAT IS CATARRH. We physicians have instances of it daily, and although we are forever warning our patients to use a little care and not catch cold, how many are there who pay attention to our words?

A Local Instance.

To give you an illustration of what I have just said, I have here the case of Charles J. Sandberg, who lives at the corner of Collingwood and Lafayette street. Mr. Sandberg says:

"I suffered from a catarrhal condition for a number of years. Of late years it has been much worse, and I began to fear I never would get rid of it. I had severe headaches nearly all the time. At times I would have a bad cough; I was constantly raising mucus; my head would stop up, and hard lumps formed in the nostrils; my ears became affected.

Charles J. Sandberg, Corner Collingwood Avenue and Lafayette Street.

I had a constant roaring and buzzing sound that impaired my hearing; the sense of smell was nearly gone and my breath was offensive. My tonsils became so enlarged as to change my voice and make speaking difficult. I had pains in my chest—sharp, shooting pains that would extend to my back. I had night sweats and my appetite was poor; I suffered considerably from constipation, and in fact, my whole system was run down.

"Some time ago I began treatment with Dr. Copeland and associates, whose offices are at 706 Madison street. They have done for me more than any other doctors or all the patent medicines and remedies that I have taken. I have increased in weight several pounds. I can sleep well. In fact, I feel better to-day than I have for many years.

They Have Cured Me.

And I cheerfully recommend them to those suffering as I did. Dr. Copeland and associates are gentlemen; physicians of ability; and are doing a great amount of good to suffering humanity in this city."

CLOAKS! CLOTHING DRESS GOODS.

Just four months ago we opened our doors to the people of Toledo, to do business in a manner never before attempted in this locality. That is, selling wearing apparel on easy payments. Our success was assured from the start; but, like nine out of every ten merchants beginning in a strange locality, we were led to expect too much, and now in consequence thereof we find ourselves greatly overstocked. We have been troubled some time, thinking what to do with this large surplus. Our experience in other places has taught us to never carry over a dollar's worth of goods from one season to the Next. There is no time like the present. We must sell the goods now, sacrifice profit, sacrifice cost, but sell them we must. With this end in view we will inaugurate the greatest Reduction Sale in Clothing, Cloaks and Dress Goods ever known to the citizens of this city. During this sale we will sell

CHOICE OF ANY GARMENT IN OUR HOUSE FOR $15.00

This includes all our $28, $25, $22.50 and $20 Garments.

FOR $12 We will sell Choice of any $18.00, $16.50, $15.00 Garment in the Store. All our $13.50 and $12.00 Garments go during this Sale FOR $10

Not alone do we make this great reduction in prices, but during this sale we will give special terms of credit to all responsible parties. If you are in need of a suit or overcoat, or your wife needs a dress or a cloak, and you have any regard for the contents of your pocket-book, you cannot fail to take advantage of this sale.

COSTLY SPREE.

Old Man Robbed While Out For a Time.

An Old Game by a Bad Crowd of Fellows and John Fell Loses About $25.

Another characteristic robbery is credited to the neighborhood of the Market Space, and it was worked in the usual way. An old man named John Fell, living on Fitch street, started out with about $50 for a good time last night, and soon became intoxicated.

In a saloon near Washington and Fifteenth streets, some of the easy-going rounders who had been helping him spend his money, quietly relieved him of a large part of his roll. As soon as Fell discovered his loss he reported it at the police station. He was in such a befuddled condition, however, that he could not give a coherent account of himself, nor of how much money he had lost. Some $17 were found on his person and it is supposed that about $25 was taken from him. This is making allowance for what he had spent.

During the night two men were arrested, but as Fell could not identify them they were released.

TOLEDO BRIDGE CO.

Buys Out the Smith Bridge Company.

New Company to be Organized To-Morrow—Under a New Management.

The Toledo Bridge company incorporated three months ago, but not yet organized, has bought out the Smith Bridge company and its entire plant and patents.

Three months ago the Toledo Bridge company secured an option on the plant owned by the Toledo Wire Nail company, but the option, which a week ago was about closed, has been allowed to expire, and the new company walk right into the old company's shoes, so to speak. The plant is taken as it stands, and steps have already been taken to enlarge and improve.

None of the members of the old company will be connected with the new concern. Mr. J. A. Huston, of the Toledo company, will be president, and Mr. E. W. Tolerton and other well-known Toledo citizens will be directors.

The deal lets the stockholders of the old company out in good shape, and all outstanding paper has been suitably provided for. Negotiations were closed to-day, but the new company will not organize before some day this week, probably to-morrow. The price paid is as yet unknown, except to the parties chiefly interested, but it is such as to be very satisfactory to the outgoing stockholders.

GRIEF MADE HER INSANE.

Terrible Effect of a Dynamite Explosion.

A Mother Goes Crazy on Seeing the Damage and Death Wrought In Her Home.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—At Cote St. Louis, an outlying suburb of Montreal, last night, several frozen dynamite cartridges which had been placed on the stove to thaw out, thawed, completely wrecking the house.

A. Dupre was terribly injured and his two little daughters were fatally burned. A third daughter had her skull fractured and will probably die.

Mrs. Dupre escaped injury, but on seeing the injuries of her husband and children, became insane and is now a raving maniac.

CONVICT MADE.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The treasury department is informed that 'Crin Vegetal," an African fibre, which is largely exported to the United States, is the product of convict labor.

THE SLEEP OF DEATH

Will Overtake the Brice Resolutions.

They Were Referred to Senator Sherman

Without Any Evidence, and the Senator's Views on the Subject Are Well Known to Bee Readers.

Columbus, Feb. 2.—(Special)—Mr. Brittain, of Columbiana, who wants to be known as a statesman, some time ago dropped a resolution into the house against the wishes of his republican colleagues, calling for an investigation of the residence of Senator Brice. It was finally referred to the committee on resolutions, after having been made a special order for several days.

This reference was made under threats of both Sherman and Foraker adherents, who did not want the late senatorial contest aired on the floor of both branches of legislature.

The resolution was reported back this morning with an amendment which is as follows:

"That the whole matter be, and hereby is referred for such action as may be proper, to the senate of the United States, with further request that Hon. John Sherman proceed in accordance to the rules and regulations of the United States senate, and cause such inquiry to be made into the eligibility of said Calvin S. Brice to a seat in the United States senate, and secure such action thereon as the facts ascertained may warrant."

Speaker Laylin stated the question was on the adoption of the report of the committee, as amended, which went through without any debate, as the democrats took no part whatever in adoption of motion, neither did any of them vote against it, except Carroll, of Wayne, who first voted aye, but on laugh from republican side and information from his democratic friends, he voted no, being the only vote against adoption of resolution.

The democrats refrained from voting, but to a call of the house 85 members answered to their names, of which 28 were democrats.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Barney Roddendam filed suit for $25,000 to-day in the United States district court against the Pennsylvania Railroad company. On October 29, 1891, Raddendam lost part of a hand in the Pennsylvania yards here, and he alleges the injury was caused by carelessness on the part of the engineer of the train.

NO BIDS FOR BONDS.

Last evening was the time set for selling several small lots of street improvement bonds, as follows: Western avenue, $19,235.86; Magnolia street, $1,607.98; Orange street, $2,200. There were no bids, as usual, and the ways and means committee did not hold a meeting.

THE PLUNGER.

Oliver and Kate Byron in the new play, The Plunger, will be the attraction at the People's next week. This is a new line for these people, who have made a great success in melo-drama, but they have been receiving high praise for their work in The Plunger.

FOR STEALING AN OVERCOAT.

The hearing of Joseph Grant, James Riley and George Temple, for stealing an overcoat from Stark's second-hand store was concluded in police court this morning. Grant pleaded guilty and endeavored to shield the other two, but the evidence implicated them all and they were fined $15 and costs and 20 days each.

BOY THIEVES.

Hugh Smith, Charles Seymour, Bert Seymour and Charles Bigelow, four small boys, were tried in police court this morning for stealing a caddy of tobacco from Feilbach's store several days ago. The boys were found guilty and Smith and Charles Seymour were sentenced to the Boys' industrial school at Lancaster, and the other two will spend 24 hours in the city prison.

ASSUMED HIS DUTIES.

Mr. M. L. Crowell, who was some time ago elected assistant treasurer of the Toldeo, St. Louis & Kansas City Railway company, yesterday assumed the duties of office, and to-day the affairs of the same were turned over to him. A greater portion of the business of the office will be transacted from Toledo.

RED LEARY'S GANG.

Chief O'Dwyer to-day received a dispatch from Dayton stating that young Faber and Fish had been convicted there of robbing freight cars. One of them was found guilty by the jury and the other pleaded guilty. These are the young members of Red Leary's gang who are wanted in Toledo.

THE WORD CONTEST.

The word lists entered in the Toledo Hospital contest are all in. There are not as many as the ladies who have the matter in charge would have liked and no very great sum will be realized. These contests netted large sums for like institutions in the west, but it seems hereabouts people are not tempted by the $100 bait. Although it is too late to send in words, all who desire may send in their fifty cents, which will be welcome.

THE MILBURN ELECTS OFFICERS.

This morning the Milburn Wagon works elected directors and officers for the ensuing year, as follows: C. F. Milburn, president; G. R. Hudson, treasurer; F. D. Suydam, secretary; William Baker, B. Meilink, F. B. Dodge, M. W. Wilcox, of Toledo; G. W. Stoddard, Dayton, and M. Kingman, Peoria, directors. A few days ago a dividend of 6 per cent. was declared by the Milburn company.

OF COURSE TOLEDO WAS THERE

E. Theobodt, of Toledo, was stopping at the Bates house in Indianapolis when the recent disastrous fire broke out at the National Medical institute. He with two fellow boarders rushed to the scene and succeeded in rescuing eight helpless people and babies from the flames, and saving clothing and jewelry from 20 rooms. Mr. Theobodt worked heroically and deserves no end of praise for his thoughtfulness and courage.

C. B. & L. ASSOCIATION.

The stockholders of the Central Building and Loan association held their annual meeting last night. The following directors were elected: J. T. Greer, L. W. Morris, H. E. Brown, I. H. Detwiler, D. Malony, George L. Harris, C. M. Hayden, John Bladon, John Stolberg, Anton Reihing, W. H. Sawtell. The directors then elected officers as follows: John Stolberg, president; H. E. Brown, vice president; J. T. Greer, secretary; C. M. Hayden, treasurer; L. W. Morris, attorney.

A POOL CHALLENGE.

As there seems to exist a diversity of opinion as to the relative merits of several of the pool players of Toledo, and that the matter may be definitely determined, I, the undersigned, hereby challenge either of the following named gentlemen to play me a match game of continuous pool, 200 points, Brunswick and Balke rules, for $50 or $100 a side: Ed. Kellogg, Harry Jones or Wm. Goodrich.

Game to be played within two weeks of signing articles of agreement and forfeit money posted. E. W. BROWN.

Toledo, Feb. 2.

TOLEDO HORSEMAN.

J. Hoffman, of Toledo, is in the city, having brought some blooded horses here, and intending to take others back to Toledo with him. The horses which changed hands through Mr. Hoffman are: The stallion Ambassador Wilkes, by Ambassador, dam by Tom Sloan. This horse is a half brother to Scioto Girl (2:15 1-2), is a beautiful animal and is considered a valuable piece of property. He was purchased by Dr. L. D. Blanchard, who will work him on the tracks next fall. The consideration was $1,000. Belle Caton, another Toledo favorite, comes into the possession of Lew Miller. Ab. and Billy M., from Miller, Blanchard & Co.'s stables, go to Toledo.—Canton Repository.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL.

The regular meeting of the Building Trades council was held last evening, with a good attendance. It was decided to admit representatives from the Linemen's union, and the delegates elected at the last meeting of the union, as reported in the Bee, were duly setaed, as were also new delegates from the plumbers, plasterers and painters. The committee having the armory work, and other special matters in hand reported, and were continued. A good deal of routine business was transacted.

IMPORTANT TRANSFER.

Some days since Mr. John T. Newton purchased 30 feet fronting on St. Clair street, adjoining the Bee building on the south. The deed was filed yesterday. Parties are figuring with Mr. Newton for the erection of several substantial business blocks, and this purchase adds to the probability of the construction. The magnificent new Bee building has given an impetus to real estate prices in that locality. The square between Madison and Adams is destined to have the most substantial business blocks in Toledo. St. Clair is the natural continuation of Lower Summit street and in time splendid business houses will be erected forth and east as far as the Steedman monument.

THE THIEDE-DROVER CASE.

The case of Rudolph Thiede against Frederick S. Drover is on hearing in common pleas court to-day. The plaintiff, Thiede, alleges that the defendant, Drover, by unscrupulous means, induced him to dispose of his property against his will.

The plaintiff's counsel to-day introduced evidence to show that the splendid new building just completed on Adams street, near Huron, by Mr. Thiede, was contracted for against his will, and through the devices and illicit influence of Drover, and that the venture placed him in debt in the sum of $8,000. It is a very interesting case, and its conclusion is watched with great interest.

CIGARMAKERS' UNION.

Union No. 48, Cigarmakers of Toledo, held their regular meeting last evening. The business transacted included a resolution to support the Bakers' union in its present trouble, and the appointment of ward committees to wait on grocers and others buying bread, and ask them to furnish union-made bread. Over $200 was taken into the treasury of the union, a portion of it as fees, and the rest the return of money previously loaned traveling members of the trade who carry union cards. These loans are made in accordance with a law of the International union, the limit being $20, and the loan being made by any union to traveling members of other unions.

THE TOLEDO BOYS' HOME.

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

New Quarters Must be Secured to Meet the Growing Demands Upon the Home.

Yesterday afternoon occurred the annual meeting of the trustees of the Toledo Boys' home. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Charles H. Whitaker, president of the board, and reports were received from the recording secretary, Mrs. John S. Kinnan, the financial secretary, Mrs. C. G. Wilson, and the treasurer, Miss A. S. Bond.

The reports all show that the officers of this worthy institution and its executive committees have labored with unflagging zeal to upbuild this home for homeless boys, and that the general public has not been slow to recognize the benefits the home confers.

In finances the society has little to count upon as assured at the present time, but the new board will go on relying upon Toledo citizens in the future as they have done in the past. About $150 net was realized from the Wheeler house entertainment lately given. It is not deemed wise to attempt to buy or build permanent quarters at the present time, though that, it is hoped, will come in the near future. Mrs. C. G. Wilson and Mrs. C. H. Whitaker, as a committee from the board, are now seeking to rent larger and more convenient quarters for the Home's present uses.

During the year 86 boys have been cared for at the home, 46 of whom have been there most of the time. At present there are 14 boys in the house.

After other business had been transacted at yesterday's meeting the following trustees were elected:

Mesdames J. B. Ketcham, A. Bigelow, H. M. Edson, D. C. LeBaron, C. H. Whitaker, S. H. Ayers, H. Wilhelm, John S. Kinnan, Chas. G. Wilson, Sarah Hitchcock, D. C. Shaw, J. D. R. Randolph, H. Tillinghast, G. W. Taque, W. H. Cray, M. M. Cronise, R. W. Barton, W. G. Pierce, Dr. E. M. Goodwin, C. L. Lewis, Richard Eck, H. M. Bacon, Wm. Parmalee, J. U. Parsons, Q. C. Pheatt, C. S. Brown, Miss A. S. Bond.

At 2:30 Friday afternoon the new board will meet at the Home and elect officers for the coming year. The standing committees for the coming year will also be appointed.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London wheat and corn markets open quiet and steady. Weather colder. Liverpool wheat lower and dull; corn much easier.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 408,903 bu, compared with 166,801 bu on the same day last year.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 1,528,000 bu of wheat and 212,000 bbls of flour, equal to 2,482,000 bu of wheat, and 1,700,000 bu of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage decreased last week 80,000 bus, being a decrease to the United Kingdom of 88,000 bu and an increase to the continent of 8,000 bu. Corn increased 320,000 bu.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows a decrease of 674,975 bu wheat, and an increase of 457,533 bu corn.

Bradstreet's Report of Exports.—Exports of Indian corn within six preceding days, as reported, have aggregated more bushels than wheat (and flour as wheat) sent abroad from both coasts during the same period, or 3,833,000 bu.; of this one-half has been reported as having been sent from Philadelphia. Last week the total quantity of corn exported was 2,856,000 bu., and in the week before 2,351,000 bu. Exports of wheat, including flour as wheat, both coasts, as reported to Bradstreet's, amount to 3,557,000 bu. this week; last week the total was 4,522,000 bu., and the week before it was about 4,300,000 bu.

The receipts of wheat are a little larger for a week than the preceding week, but the soft weather will again restrict the movement.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat, 96,371 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 400,000 bu. The export of corn was 433,524 bu, and of oats 47,536 bu.

English markets as reported herein make London quiet and steady on wheat and corn, and Liverpool lower and dull on each.

The Situation.

The secretary of this exchange has returned from a week's absence at Washington, where he was sent in the interest of our harbor improvement, as delegate to the National Board of Trade, and as one of the delegates from the deep water convention. His stay in Washington was a busy but very pleasant, and it is to be hoped a profitable one.

But in his absence the grain markets have by no means fulfilled his hopes, and prices have declined. Why they have declined is too obvious to require comment, and there has been no gain in any direction as a compensation for the decline. Exports have depreciated instead of increasing, and by our want of confidence in the American position for 1891-2, and our constant weakness we have demoralized the buying markets of the world. Of course, with good stocks abroad a dull market was to be expected, but we have intensified the conditions. As an exchange circular we cannot do justice to the causes that have produced the needless break in prices in this country from about $1.00 at the lake markets to 90c and below. Buyers abroad are amazed at our reckless and foolish management, and will buy nothing to-day because the prospects are that they can do better to-morrow. When will the morning break?

The Markets To-day.

It is Ground Hog day, and there is no sunlight in this vicinity and no special shadows, but dark and gloomy weather with a broad shadow everywhere. The shadow reaches the wheat market, the conditions of which present no marked change. Prices are not much lower but they are some, and the markets dull, weak and without spirit.

Corn works steadily and prices are maintained. The weather, so far as it a factor, favors stronger prices.

Minneapolis reports sales of wheat in that market for export.

Beerbohm reports Liverpool market steady.

In New York—February wheat closed 1-2c and May 1 1-8c lower. February corn 1-4c and May 1-8c lower. February oats 1-8c lower.

In Chicago May wheat closed 1 1-8c lower. February corn 3-4c and May 1-8c higher.

In Toledo.—There was a reasonably fair amount of trading in wheat futures, but at weak and declining prices. There were no new elements in the deals. We decline on this side of the ocean and the break is reflected abroad day after day, and that is all that can be said about it to-day. February wheat sold at 91 1-4c to 91c and at close about 90 3-4c was its value; March sold at 94 7-8c, down to 94 1-4c at the close, a loss of 1c; July sold at 90 7-8c and at close the price was 90 1-4c.

There was a good demand for cash wheat with sales of 60,000 bu: No. 2 soft sold at 91 1 4 down to 90 3-4 at the close, a loss of 1 1-4; No. 3 soft sold at 89 1-2. No sales of other grades.

Corn No. 2 at 39 1-4; No. 3 at 38 1-2; No. 2 yellow at 39 1-4; No. 3 yellow at 38 7-8. Rye No. 3 at 80. Clover seed was about steady with very slight change in prices; prime for cash at $5 55; February at $5 55; No. 2 at $5 35.

Markets by Telegraph.

London, Feb. 2.—1:00 p. m.—Wheat cargoes off coast at opening, quiet and steady; maize nothing offering. Wheat and maize cargoes on passage and for shipments, quiet and steady. Weather colder.

Liverpool, Feb. 2.—1:00 p. m.—Wheat market quiet, demand poor, holders offer moderately. American mixed corn easy, demand poor, 4s 3 3-4d. No. 2 spring wheat (U. S. seaboard inspection) 7s 9d@7s 9 1-2d. No. 2 red winter wheat (New York standard) 7s 7 1-2d@7s 8d. No. 1 Cal. wheat 7s 11d@7s 11 1-2d. Wheat and corn off coast demand poor.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Opening Wheat—May, 90 1-4c. Corn—February, 39 3-8c; March, 40 1-8c; May, 40 7-8c. Oats—May, 30 5-8c. Pork—May, $12.00. Lard—May, $6.70. Ribs—May, $6.05.

THE LUCKY MAN.

During the last administration, says the Boston Globe, Col. Christy called at the white house one day with Mr. Heffner, an aged gentleman of venerable appearance, who had passed many years of his life on the South American continent.

"President Cleveland," said the colonel, "I have brought this gentleman, who has spent most of his long life amid the magnificences of the little republics of South America, that he might look upon the simplicity of the great republic of our northern continent."

"Yes," replied the president, affably, grasping the stranger's hand, "we are very simple here."

"You have encouragement from on high, Mr. President," rejoined Col. Christy. "You remember that speaking through the mouth of His inspired Psalmist He has said: 'The Lord preserveth the simple,' and I'll be blest if He hasn't taken good care of you."

"This world is full of coincidences," said Col. Christy, when reminded of the incident yesterday. "I had occasion to remind Mr. Cleveland of the Lord's oversight the other day when I congratulated him on the birth of a daughter and called to his mind the expressive Spanish proverb: 'The lucky man has a daughter for his first-born.'"

Mr. Parkhurst, of Allen & Parkhurst, has been elected delegate to the Master House Makers' convention at St. Louis. He will leave next Monday for this trip.

Prof. Whiting's class in music at the Y. M. C. A. will meet Thursday evening, instead of Wednesday, on account of the Whiting organ recital, which occurs on that evening.

Mrs. Vincent, of Hotel Ontario, has returned from Chicago, having found her daughter, who was very ill, much better. Mr. Vincent was in Pittsburg on business when the dispatch was received.

There is to be a spelling contest between the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Lagrange Street Congregational church and the East Toledo Congregational church. Miss Delia Fox, Mr. Steanga and Miss Jennie Nauts have been appointed a committee on arrangements.

Miss Irene Frost entertained about forty couples last evening with six-handed progressive euchre. Dainty refreshments were served and artistic floral decorations adorned the rooms. The ladies prizes were silver hair-pins and were won by the Misses Marie Suydam, Grace Hine and Eva Bond. The prizes for the gentlemen were silver pencils. This occasion was one of much pleasure.

Mr. Saphaun, of the Syracuse Courier, a nephew of Dr. Williams, of the First Congregational church, was one of the California tourists who stopped over for a bit of a visit. He is a bright newspaper man, and was one of the select few to enjoy the hospitality of M. H. De Young at his private residence in San Francisco, where the menu alone cost $1,000.

Capt. Charles Hubbard is to-day bestowing cigars with a liberal hand, all on account of the arrival of a bouncing boy at his home. The captain proposes to reserve a stewardship's berth for the youngster on one of the Toledo Transportation company's boats, though he may need help until the boy becomes big enough, which, according to Capt. Hubbard's story, will not be long, since he weighs but little less than 20 pounds now.

Last night at the residence of Mrs. F. Backus, on Twelfth street, was given a pretty dancing party in honor of the nineteenth anniversary of the birth of Mr. Will Connelly, the numerous friends of Mr. Connelly agreeably surprising him. Among the guests who were so handsomely entertained were Allie Cooney, Mattie Cooney, Mattie Gruber, Julia Bronson, Linette Parker, May McDonell, Mabel Wright, Anna Wright, Agnes Early, Gertrude O'Brien, Nellie Donovan, Edna Smith, Lillie Keenan, Chas. Stanley, Jim Cooney, Bennett Bliss, Jim Feeley, M. S. Savan, Sam Bodley, Phil Uhl, Tom Edwards, Will Lyons, and Will Kenney.

TOLEDO, OHIO, FEBRUARY 2, 1892.

The projected dissolution of parliament in May indicates that the conservatives are alarmed at the increasing number of Gladstonian victories in bye-elections, and believe their chances of being returned to power in parliament will be lessened rather than increased by further delay. On the liberal side, there is confidence that the party will have the majority when the next government is formed, but there is uneasiness as to leadership. In the nature of things, Gladstone is not long to be counted on, and "After Gladstone, who?" is a question the wisest and most devoted of the party cannot answer.

Congressman Morse, of Massachusetts, was neatly unhorsed by his colleague, Sherman Hoar, in the house yesterday. Mr. Hoar held in one hand the stenographic report of a speech by Mr. Morse, and in the other a type-written copy for the record, in which were introduced some words not uttered by Mr. Morse as he spoke, and a parenthesis was inserted including (laughter on the republican side), in Mr. Morse's own hand-writing. To this Mr. Hoar objected, as it was against the rules of the House to amend a speech for record without permission. This exposition of a member's little vanity was too much and Mr. Hoar got the historic taunt of his youth in return. "He is in the kindergarten class now," said Mr. Morse, and that was all he could say. He did not deny the amendment of his remarks, and the "crime of being a young man" did not overburden the bright Bayrater to any perceptible degree.

Both the imports and exports were larger during the year 1891 than ever before in the history of the United States. Figures do not lie. The alleged injury to the foreign trade by the McKinley law is a myth, a democratic invention.—Republican Organ.

Does any person, capable of reasoning, suppose that even the McKinley bill could put a check upon the growth of a country like ours? It has shown this yearly increase in one way and another ever since the Union was born, not by virtue of bad laws, but in spite of them. Will this organ-grinder look back and see how many times it was promised by its promoters that the McKinley bill should check imports in the interest of home manufacturers? It was the avowed intent of the bill. If this was not its object, then its sole purpose was to stimulate prices. But it is declared this has not been done. It's a pretty expensive law to maintain except somebody gets benefit.

At the monthly meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce this week a subscription fund will be started for the benefit of the starving Russians. All moneys received will be transmitted to our minister at St. Petersburg, to be by him distributed to the distressed peasantry. This is one of many popular movements in this country for the relief of these patient, suffering people, but the proffers of help, from all sources, are in no way adequate to meet the emergency. Only now and then, as some new and authenticated instance of extreme suffering is related, do we catch a glimpse of the real and horrible condition in that unhappy land. And yet the only plea that goes up from this vast army of the starving, in this land where nihilism was born and flourishes, is "Give us work or bread." In this country, or in England, long ere this, under the same conditions the cry would have been, "Bread or blood!" The slav is more patient than the Anglo-Saxon, and more accustomed to suffering. The present passivity of the Russian peasantry, on whom the famine falls more severely than on any other class, is also proof of what those best understanding Russian affairs have said, that the nihilistic movement is the revolt of the educated and upper classes. To the Russian peasant the "little father" is still a ruler to be reverenced and obeyed, whatever he may do or order them to do or suffer.

The amount of the matter is that Pension-Commissioner Raum and his bureau have attained such a wide-spread influence through prodigal disbursements, it is something of a task to start the probe into the diseased concern. Then censure through misapprehension, is feared, so many unthinking persons can see no difference between an honest investigation into corrupt methods and a hostility to pensions, honestly distributed. Corporal Tanner, in revenge, perhaps, for his displacement, confesses that he has made $100,000 as a lawyer out of the business, and he is only one of the favored attorneys. And these sums are taken from the people's treasury and represent the mulcting of the soldiers. "If you have doubts about your case," read the advertisements of these sharks, "come to us and we will make it out for you," and they rarely fail to accomplish this if there is the least foundation to build upon. Now that a loud voice from the honest old soldiers themselves calls for investigation, it is time to institute it at whatever cost in the way of partisan abuse. And it should be made thorough and complete.

A FAMILIAR BILL.

As regularly as a new legislature convenes in Ohio, the old familiar medical bill appears. The medics own this hobby and ride it for all it is worth. Some reputable physicians are honest in their opposition to specialists while others are jealous of them. A general onslaught is being made this year, and old school boys and the new school fellows are determined to create a state board of examiners and impose such a heavy license as will drive a class of specialists out of practice. It will be observed that the regulars draw an ethical line through their bill. A man may be an ignoramus, yet a specialist without advertising, and be all right; the proposed law would not reach him for the protection of the people. But if he be the brightest physician in the state, and advertise his special professional work, then this Sterrett law, if passed, will lay its heavy hand upon him and tax him out of house and home.

This ethical point is stuff and nonsense that should be put aside in this enlightened age. Here in Toledo we have specialists among our very best physicians and surgeons, and they let people know about their ability, though they do not use the newspapers for transmitting the information. They advertise by methods of their own. In their line they are no more able than is Dr. Kiskadden in his specialty, or Dr. France in his particular line of work. Such as these two are under the ban of these ethical gentlemen who are now working the legislature for selfish purposes.

There is another class, the professional lobbyists who use such bills as the Sterrett measure for blackmailing purposes, and if reports are to be relied upon the blood-sucking business is now in progress. The Sterrett bill ought to be killed.

THE QUESTION OF FREE WOOL.

The formal appeal to congress of the Wool Consumers' Association of New England is explicit and emphatic. There is no political twang to it; it has the pure business ring, yet it reaches down with unmistakable clutch to the very heart-strings of protective tariff taxation. It demands free raw wools and advises a correspondingly decreased duty on manufactured goods, to the end that the industry may prosper as it never can do under present regulations. "Not only," it says, "will free wool be a great boon to the manufacturer but to the consumer. * * It is not produced in this country in quantity or variety sufficient for the demand. High duties for a quarter of a century have failed to tempt the production of any carpet wool in this country, or an adequate supply of some grades needed for woolen and worsted manufacture. And as wool can be made free with very little disturbance to trade and without interfering with sufficient protection, it is asked that the change be made in Schedule K of the act of 1890, for the benefit of the whole people."

This expose of the failure of the McKinley tax idea should be considered in conjunction with the flockmaster's condition; prices of his product have gone down since the law to benefit him went into operation. With the wool-grower, the manufacturer and the consumer agreed that the tax is a failure, what stands in the way of its repeal? Nothing but a dogged partisan spirit, a blind prejudice, an obstinate determination to choke this policy down the throats of the people in spite of their protest, of common sense and plain illustration of its futility. Mr. McKinley has said to the flockmasters of Ohio, "if the tax comes off from wool, so will it come off the manufactured goods." Mr. McKinley is not a lawmaker, at the present moment, but he doubtless speaks for his party, which happily are not manipulating all things without let or hindrance.

The consumer says "amen" to the McKinley dictum, and he may look to see a democratic congress echo the sentiment. We have the word of the mill owners that it will be "a great boon to consumers," and the sheep owners cannot object strongly as they are worse off with the law than they were without it.

It is not the one item, wool, that so disturbs the high-taxers, but to confess to failure in this particular and make amends is to knock the main prop out of the whole sham structure. It is but the beginning of the end of this monstrous and expensive legislation that interferes with the business of individuals to the detriment of all concerned.

The New York Herald assumes to have received thanks from the Chilean government "for its action in fostering and promoting an amicable settlement of the difficulty." Blaine, Harrison, Egan, Herald, Nitrate gang, English meddlers—anybody else to blame for precipitating peace upon us?

There is no doubt as to the insanity of Jack the Slasher (Henry G. Dowd). The guilty parties are the authorities who, "through the influence of wealthy and influential friends" allowed him to remain outside asylum walls until he became a triple murderer.

Whistler, the American artist, has been made an officer of the legion of honor by the French government, a rare distinction. France doesn't tax art or artists. The poorest peasant in Paris has advantages in art that the millionaire prince cannot buy in America.

Secretary Tracy will not attend the banquet of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association in Baltimore to-morrow, it being the anniversary of the terrible blow that came to him in the burning to death of his wife and daughter in Washington two years ago.

"Our Chauncey" will add to his laurels by presiding at a Pennsylvanian Eisteddfod. March coming. An after-dinner orator need not take off his hat to a president in this country. The man who can talk is the man who gets there.

HOME AGAIN.

Secretary D. B. Smith Thinks Toledo O. K.

Secretary D. B. Smith has returned from Washington after his trip in the interest of harbor appropriations. To a Bee Mr. Smith said this morning:

"The interests of Toledo in respect to harbor improvement are in good hands, so far as the committee in the house is concerned. Our representative, Col. Haynes, is quiet, but an untiring worker, a good manager, and has large influence in the committee. He had done good service before the Toledo committee arrived, but the latter were not idle or useless.

"We shall be recommended for a good round sum for our straight channel, out of which the outer bar or shoal, and the shoals at the inner end of the channel will be removed."

"How about politics at the capital?"

"Both political parties in the beautiful city are showing signs of life, just now, but there is the usual uncertainty. Mr. Hill seems to be gaining the support of democrats, and Mr. Blaine, apparently, has the greatest number of friends with the republican party."

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mr. Rider Haggard pronounces his name "Reeder."

Julia Ward Howe at 73 is as charming as Julia Ward Howe at 40. She has the beauty which time cannot dim, the beauty of soul and expression.

The Marquis of Lorne has been appointed governor and constable of Windsor castle in place of Prince Victor of Hohenlohe, who died a short time ago.

The hair dressing of ladies was an expensive affair in the sixteenth century. Queen Elizabeth at one time was possessed of no fewer than 80 attires of false hair.

Dr. Edward Eggleston says that he is tired of being regarded as a wooly western dialectician. Still the best thing he ever did was done in that line in "The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

Ex-Senator Jones, of Florida, continues to nurse the delusions that resulted in his insanity. Physically he is in better condition than he has been for years, and on ordinary matters his judgment is sound.

The original act of the Chilean congress deposing President Balmaceda has been placed in a glass case and so suspended that both sides of the document can be read. The case is hung in President Montt's study in Moneda.

The czar's famous minister, M. de Giers, is now in bad health, suffering from the painful disease that carried off the last emperor of the French, and with his decline in physical vigor there has developed in him, it is said, a noteworthy indisposition to precipitate a war in Europe.

Arabi Pacha, the exiled Egyptian mischief-maker, lives on the island of Ceylon amid cocoanut groves haunted by squirrels and magpie-robins. He complains of the moist heat of his present home, and compares it unfavorably with the dry warmth of Egypt. The climate or some other cause has somewhat impaired his health of late.

John W. Mackay, the bonanza king, is described as a tallish, slender, well-knit, active man, with a nimble, rapid gait; finely cut, compact head, lines strong in the regions assigned to energy and perception; hair somewhat of the Saxon, flaxen, uncertain color, a gentle, measured voice, and a prompt, hearty address. He would be pointed out in any assemblage as a man of distinction, but he is of retiring and modest demeanor. He is noted for his simple way of life, eating plain food and holding wine in aversion.

That Charley Hall is now moving among the republicans for indorsements for the position of deputy oil inspector, with assistant secretary of the executive committee Adams close on his trail.

Waiting for November.

Powell Clayton is much closer to veracity than he sometimes is when he says that Indiana is "more democratic than republican," and that "in the strictest legal sense" the election of a republican president is "a matter of reasonable doubt." There is no reasonable doubt about it, however, for the republican party is already convicted, and it is now simply waiting sentence.—St. Louis Republic.

The Sugar Bounty and the Lottery.

One planter in Louisiana has raised 4,250,000 pounds of sugar. This will give him $85,000 from the national treasury. The sugar bounty and the lottery combined will make Louisiana the richest state in the nation. The lottery is the more harmless of the two, because donations to its fund are voluntary.—Kansas City Times.

PROSECUTOR BARBER

Talks on the Complications Arising from the New Salary Law.

The sheriff's office is involved in a complicated state of affairs with regard to salaries for the sheriff and his deputies, as was stated in the Bee yesterday. The situation becomes more embarrassing when the county commissioners to-day refuse to transfer from any other fund to meet this emergency. This was done under the advisement of the prosecuting attorney.

Mr. Barber, in conversation with a Bee on the difficulty, said: "According to this new law the sheriff and his deputies are to receive a salary. Every cent that the sheriff's office collects is paid over to the county auditor, which is covered into the sheriff's fee fund. The law requires that the salaries of the sheriff's office must be paid out of this fund. It now happens that the sheriff's office only collected $123.88 during January, which of course will not pay the salaries of the office. In my opinion the only thing the officials of the office can do is to accept the $123.88 and wait until the fund is able to pay the balance. I give this as my opinion for this reason. The statute in some cases authorizes a transfer of cash from one fund to another, but only with regard to funds the income of which are levied by taxation. Of course this is a new law and has never been tested in court, and I may be wrong in my opinion. The new law does not provide for an emergency of this kind, and whether this case would come within the bounds of the other or not is the question. I am almost positive it does not."

BUCKEYE BREWING COMPANY

Files Demurrers in the Case Brought by The English Syndicate.

This morning in the United States district court demurrers were filed in the suit brought by the English syndicate against the Buckeye Brewing company.

A demurrer, five in all, is filed by each of the defendants to the suit. They are very brief and simply state that "the petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a course of action."

The attorneys for the defense are Waite & Snider and John H. Doyle.

The case may be taken to Cleveland in order to hurry a decision, but in the event of this not being done the demurrers will not come before the court until the June term.

THE MISSING SCOW.

New York, Feb. 2.—The ocean tug Edgar F. Luckenbach returned to-day to this port after a fruitless three days' search for the missing scow No. 5 and no further effort will be made to rescue the two men on board of her. The only hope for them now is that they have been picked up by some passing vessel, in the same way that the crew of the disabled Edwin Webster was so fortunately rescued by a schooner just as the waterlogged tug was about to go down.

WIFE BEATER

Receives a Deserving Sentence in Police Court.

August Heidman, living at 1816 Fitch street, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of abusing family. His wife amid many tears testified that they had been married three years, and that August was a good husband when sober, but since last April he had neglected his family, and coming home drunk would often abuse her, call her vile names and strike or choke her. Last night he repeated this performance, and that it was which caused his arrest. He resisted Officer Krout who took him into custody, but he was taken just the same. Heidman in making his own statement talked in a very brutal manner, and injured his case rather than helping it. In consequence Judge Sala fined him $15, costs and 20 days.

THE NATURAL GAS SITUATION

Reviewed from the Beginning to Now by Mr. Wm. H. Maher.

To the Editor:—There has never been a question of public policy handled with more appeal to prejudice more misstatements as to facts than has this one of the city pipe line.

Taking it as it stands to-day and looking back at its history no person of candor or honesty can find a single claim made by the promoters of the scheme that has proven true.

It could be built for $450,000 the pipe line committee reported.

It has so far cost in hard cash and promises to pay over $1,100,000.

It would bring a large number of factories here.

It hasn't brought a single one!

It would furnish free gas to our factories.

It will not even furnish them gas for pay!

It would compel the Northwestern Gas company to reduce prices.

The Northwestern Gas company made its rates to 12 cents per thousand instead!

The city line would furnish gas to consumers at one-half the old rates of the Northwestern or a good deal less than that

Instead of this its rate is two-thirds the new rate charged by the Northwestern!

This list might be extended indefinitely. The men at the head of the scheme knew quite well that the promises they were making were made simply to deceive, but they had private ends to serve and did not care for the public. I have in mind one loud-mouthed philanthropist whose heart bled at the wrongs inflicted on the people by the "Octopus," in charging them for gas from one-half to two-thirds what they had formerly paid for coal, while he was trying to push off his East Toledo lots at $300 each, for which he had paid $100 each a few months before. He was and is the type of a large class of noisy, persistent workers for the pipe line. His lots are not all sold and he is to-day very prominent in demanding that more bonds shall be issued and the good work shall go on—till the last lot is off his hands!

But whatever the purpose and history of the scheme this fact is now evident to the most prejudiced; the city has $1,100,000 in the plant, and with less than one-third of the homes connected to its line has not enough of gas for these on a moderately cold day.

One would think that, with the failure of every promise and prediction made, the mass of the taxpayers would demand at this juncture two things:

1. A complete examination of the office here, with its income, expenses, methods and manipulations.

2. An unprejudiced report of the condition in the field; of the wells owned by the city; of the territory owned or leased by them, and of the territory possible yet to be obtained.

If good territory can be had at any price no one should oppose the obtaining of it. It would be the part of a fool to let $1,100,000 be totally lost if the expenditure of $50,000 or even $100,000 can save it. But it is equal folly to invest another dollar there until it is made absolutely sure that the dollar is not to be lost.

These points were considered by some taxpayers a week ago and a request sent to the mayor to appoint a committee to make this investigation. He has not acted upon it. Mr. Wm. Baker presented the resolution to the aldermen and your reporter says he was made the subject of some ill-natured remarks by Alderman Potter, and Alderman Macomber, fearing the effect of such a committee, promised to favor it if the gas trustees and aldermen were added. So that a majority would be at hand to make a proper report, you understand. And then the aldermen proceeded to ignore Mr. Baker, and passed the ordinance.

I am informed that a fair condition of the territory owned by the city is as follows:

Most of the gas brought here in the city pipes is taken from the south end of the gas field—Stuartsville and Van Buren—where the rock pressure has gone down to 115 pounds. Some of these wells are of fair volume, had they proper pressure, but as it is, they are worth little to Toledo.

In Bloom township, Wood county, the city has 15 wells and about 871 acres. Some of the wells are showing salt water, and all of them are light in volume; a million feet being considered a good well there. The rock pressure is only 130 pounds, while on the east side, where the Northwestern owns territory, it is 215 pounds.

The city has in Perry township about 1,500 acres that was leased before the trustees got it, but the lease was thrown up by the original holders, as they found the territory no good. Wherever the land was tested it shows fair rock pressure, but no volume. The Norris well, which has been spoken of as one that would help Toledo out of her trouble, was too small to even supply Norris and his neighbors; its capacity is fairly stated at 25,000 feet. The Phillips well, another of these angels to bring us relief, did not measure one million feet three years ago.

Your readers should understand that the rock pressure of a small well is exactly the same as that of a large well in the same field. To read that a new well of 250 pounds has come in, tells nothing as to whether its production is 25,000 feet per day or 1,000,000 feet.

A very important question is: What effect will pumping have upon these almost exhausted wells?

I am told that there is no difficulty in learning this from attempts previously made, and that there is but one result; that is, it relieves the rock pressure and the moment that pressure is reduced to a certain point, oil or salt water in our Ohio field will permeate the rock and flood all adjacent wells.

A test as to this is shown in one well owned by the city, which the trustees claimed they were never able to enclose, and so, for two years, the gas was permitted to escape. It was one of the five to ten million feet wells the city owned, as reported on paper, but was, in fact, a fair two million feet well. When the pressure was reduced sufficiently water drowned out the well. Neither Findlay, Tiffin, Bowling Green, or the Northwestern company saw any difficulty in enclosing worse wells than this, but our trustees saw no way of controlling their well, and so let it exhaust and drown itself. What that well accomplished for itself pumps will do for the others, and if any gas at all is left, when pumps are put on the city line, consumers may well lay in wood at once.

CHARMING PERFORMANCE

In the Ohio Yacht Club's Stock Theater.

The Happy Termination of a Chinese Play That Has Been Running for a Number of Days.

"We represent the O. Y. C. with colors bright and gay," and so on and so on, sings the chorus with Will Stackhouse at the piano, the bully good stock company on the stage, the bully good members playing audience in the pit, and the secretary, John Gunckel, the sweet singer of Oberlin, down in the bald-headed row humming to himself "Wait till the clouds roll by." The lights blaze forth; there is a grand clash of Stackhouse—that is, the orchestra; the curtain rises with a swish on the best show on earth, and the O. Y. C. is once more in it. The troublesome waters have been quieted, and the wind that blows through the whiskers of the members is no tempest, but rather the soft, balmy, sweet-scented zephyrs that have kissed and are wafted from the fragrant bul bul groves of Ceylon.

It was all done last evening when Commodore G. W. Bills, vice commodore V. H. Ketcham, Rear Commodore Henry Tracy, Secretary John E. Gunckel, Treasurer Chas. Klauser, Directors G. H. Ketcham, F. A. Lee, T. C. Purney, H. T. Marshall and J. H. Pheatt; Dennison Steele, measurer; R. Buchanan and Geo. Craig, of the regatta committee, and Dr. J. T. Woods, fleet surgeon, resigned and the following officers were elected: Commodore, Herman R. Klauser; vice commodore, J. H. Southard; rear commodore, Henry Tracy; Secretary, John E. Gunckel; treasurer, Chas. W. Klauser; treasurer, Capt. Dennison Steele; surgeon, Dr. J. T. Woods, directors, C. E. Armstrong, James Bliss, F. N. Quale, E. Bateman and Frank A. Lee.

It was resolved "That all committees and appointments made by the club and its officers be and the same are hereby declared vacated upon the passage of this resolution." Consequently there will be new committees shortly. The directors held a meeting last evening after the election. Major McLyman offered to loan the club any money it desired. The suits have been withdrawn and the goose hangs high.

Spear and Warn Paying Up Old Toledo Debts—At Work on the Pacific Slope.

The friends of M. C. Warn, the ex-cashier of the Merchant's National bank, propose taking a hand in fighting the will of the late Calvin Bronson.

Mr. Warn, who is associated with Ed. Spear, formerly of Toledo, in San Francisco, in the brokerage business, is doing everything to clear his good name here in Toledo. He is paying off his debts one by one, and proposes clearing up every dollar he owes.

Mr. Ed. Spear, who left Toledo under somewhat of a cloud, is making money at the Golden Gate, and wants his Toledo friends here to know he will live up to all promises he ever made to them. He has paid up the debts owed by him to several Toledo banks.

Mr. Warn is in a position now to push the claims of his children to the Bronson estate, and he has friends here who will back him.

Care keeps its hold with constant clasp,
Whatever may betide us;
Grief waits the shrinking heart to grasp,
Pacing, half veiled, beside us.
But oh, the sky is blue,
And oh, the sun is bright!
And the chickadee in the dark pine tree
Carols his meek delight.

The earth in silent snow is bound;
Want grinds and pain oppresses;
Life's awful problems who shall sound?
Its riddles sad who guesses?
But oh, the sky is blue,
And oh, the sun is bright!
And the chickadee in the tall pine tree
Sings in the cold's despite.

Give me of thy wise hope, dear bird,
Who brav'st the bitter weather!
Share the glad message thou hast heard,
And let us sing together.
Tho' winter winds blow wild,
No storm can thee affright,
Thy trust teach me, oh chickadee,
Sweet chanting from thy height.

BEYOND THE BOUNDS.

I am not a poet. I cannot rhyme;
But sometimes in the quiet vesper hour
The common, narrow limits almost do break away
And show entrancing visions of a day
Wide stretching, grand, eternal,
That lures me past the boundaries of self, and place, and time.

And when I hear the sweet, soft chime
Of distant music, then my soul resounds
With echoes of forgotten joys, and memories
Of past moments that once were bliss
But now are only faded leaves yet sad and sweet.

I am not a poet. I cannot rhyme;
And yet the memories and the visions do
Part the veil and lead me in a world
More fair, more bright, and holier than this.
A sweet prescience of that time the soul shall know
No mete nor bound nor narrow limitation.

An ancient copper mine, which was first worked 1183 years ago, is about to be reopened in Musashi, Japan. Old Japanese manuscripts, of undoubted authenticity, mention this mine. Its galleries and levels are, in some cases, just as they were 700 years ago.

There are said to be 67 veterans of the war of 1812 now living in the United States. One of the oldest is Silas Ware, of Waukesha, Wis., who was born at Enosburg, Vt., in 1798, and enlisted in the company formed by Capt. Erwin at French's Mills, N. Y., where young Ware's father kept a tavern.

If commander Maury is to have a monument, no fitter memorial could be conceived than the proposed lighthouse on the Hampton Roads rip-raps. It would surely detract nothing from the sentiment conveyed in such a form of tribute that it would likewise be serving perpetually the cause of commerce and of humanity.

Mark Trafton is preaching to mankind the philosophy of hearty breakfasts, and a good philosophoy it is. The poet stated a pat truth when he said, "Fate cannot harm me; I have dined to-day;" but fate usually encounters the ordinary man during the daytime before the dinner hour, and a well filled stomach is a good bulwark against it.

The curious news comes from Bombay that an epidemic of cholera has broken out among shoals of sharks, those terrible monsters that infest the Indian ocean. The bodies of several British seamen who had died of cholera in the harbor of Bombay were taken out to sea and buried, and it is supposed that the sharks contracted the disease by feasting on the bodies of the human victims.

The czar has ordered that a certain regiment of horse guards stationed at Charhoff must pay the widow of a merchant murdered in that city a yearly pension of 5,000 roubles. The merchant met his death at the hands of members of the regiment and the czar has made the officers responsible, saying that they were to blame for the loose discipline that made such a crime possible. It is noteworthy as "a good deed in a naughty world" of Russian injustice.

The marriage of Orlan Lewis, of Hodgeman county, and Jennie E. Foote, of Crocker, Mo., necessitated the longest ceremony on record. It was done by telegraph, a preacher at each end of the line, and occupied four hours from start to finish. The bride then took the first train for Kansas, arriving about midnight on the same day. The young couple then drove some distance in the country and took their breakfast, which was waiting for them at the house of a friend, at 3 o'clock in the morning.

While prosecuting the excavations at Pompeii, a few weeks ago, the workmen discovered a small room used by a private family for the worship of the gods. The architecture, according to reports, was exceedingly graceful and attractive. Beautiful frescoes still adorned the walls. On one side of the room was a figure of Hercules, while at the other end was an altar still showing marks of the sacrifices which had been made upon it. Bronze figures representing a half-clad priestess in the attitude of prayer, and Mercury, were also in the room. A gold-bronze amulet was also found.

The mending of lace is an art of itself, and many professional menders, who are usually French or German, earn handsome livings working at this dainty task. A knowledge of lace stitchery is necessary in mending handsome lace. If an ordinary piece tears mend it with lace thread, which comes in small, soft bails at 5 to 10 cents, imitating the groundwork mesh to the best of your ability. Before taking a stitch baste the lace on a piece of embroidery, leather or stiff paper, otherwise it will be drawn out of shape and distorted by puckers. In pulling out the basting threads after darning a tear, be careful to clip the threads into short lengths.

Howard Athenæum Specialty Company at the People's.

The Charity Ball at Wheeler's To-Morrow—The Byrons in The Plunger.

The largest house of the season filled the People's theater last evening, and the great audience was given a splendid specialty performance by the Boston Howard Athenaeum company. Every member of this company is a star in his own line and the performance was the best of its kind ever witnessed in Toledo.

The members of the company are Josie and Eddie Evans, comedy sketch artists; Fulgord in a transfiguration act; Faike and Semons, musical comedians on all sorts of instruments; Miss Eva Bertholdi in a wonderful balancing and contortion act; James and Lucy Allison in songs and dances; A. O. Duncan, a clever ventriloquist and imitator; Janet Melville and Evie Stetson a good vocal duet team; Kara, the juggler; Golden and Quigg, knock-about comedians, and the Braatz Brothers in a novel tumbling and balancing act.

Every number was excellent and received liberal applause, and a big week's business is on for this theater.

The Charity Ball.

The Charity Ball comes to Wheeler's tomorrow with the indorsement of some of the best critics, and columns of praise might be quoted from many throughout the country. The authors have accomplished a great literary achievement in the construction of the Charity Ball. From the rise of the curtain until the end, there is an increasing interest. The language is choice, the comedy clear and bright, the climaxes strong and natural.

Sherman Hoar Stands for Civil Service.

He Believes All Postmasters, in the Interest of Good Service, Should Fill Out Their Terms.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Representative Hoar, of Massachusetts, appeared before the house committee on reform in the civil service to-day in support of his bill to fix the tenure of postmasters and to regulate their appointment, promotion and removal.

Mr. Hoar argued that the bill, if enacted into law, would greatly increase the efficiency of the mail service. He called attention to the efficiency of postmasters who were not removed by the change of administration and cited cases of inefficiency of new postmasters until they became thoroughly acquainted with their duties.

Mr. Hoar was followed by Messrs. Stuart Wood, W. W. Montgomery and Charles Richardson of Philadelphia, members of the Pennsylvania Civil Service Reform association, who favored the bill and indorsing the argument of Mr. Hoar.

The money not having been found until after the demise of Cadwallader, Ira Cadwallader, the son and executor of his father's estate, claims the money was placed there by his father for safe-keeping, and now brings suit for the recovery of the same. Washington, Feb. 2.—Commissioner of Patents Simonds to-day appeared before the house committee on patents and concluded his argument begun at the last meeting of the committee, in support of the bill introduced by Mr. Buchanan, of New Jersey, revising and amending the statutes relating to patents.

The committee took no action and Chairman Tillman stated after the meeting that the committee would be very conservative and would not attempt any violent changes in the patent laws just yet.

EVERYTHING GOES

On the Calling of the Roll with the Councilmen.

Gas Refunding Scheme and Illuminating Gas Schedule Approved—A Number of Less Important Matters.

There was a large amount of wire pulling and lobbying at the council chamber last night on the numerous important matters that were to come before the board. There was a large schedule of business and after the members settled down to business it was put through as fast as possible and but little discussion was indulged in. The most important matters before the board were the gas certificate refunding ordinance, the street railway ordinance and the illuminating gas ordinance.

There was some delay in calling the meeting to order as there were not enough members present to pass ordinances. Warrants were accordingly issued requiring the attendance of Mr. Morris and Mr. Pheatt and placed in the hands of Sergeant-at-Arms O'Sullivan to serve. Mr. Morris, however, arrived before the officer found him, Mr. Pheatt was found at the O. Y. C. rooms and came in near the close of the session.

A warrant was also issued later in the evening for Mr. Tanner, but he did not appear.

The work done by the lobbyists at a session of the council like that of last night would be worthy of a much larger and more important body. The council chamber is a most democratic place, and there may be seen a curious collection of citizens and officials, of high and low degree, all hob-nobbing together as the best of friends and they present an interesting sight to one who knows the varied purposes for which they are on hand. Among those present last evening were William Baker, H. S. Walbridge, Will Robison, O. S. Brumback, John Kumler, ex-Solicitor Guy W. Kinney, Mayor Emmick, Gas Trustees Parsons, Jones and Greene, City Gas Plant Manager Hesston, City Solicitor Read, City Engineer Wickenden, City Auditor Walker, Street Commissioner Bower, P. H. Degnan, John Coghlin, Birchard Hayes, R. F. Booth, Assistant City Solicitor Watts, A. E. Lang, Aldermen Hartford, Potter and Huberich and a number of real estate dealers, contractors and citizens.

Mr. Caldwell presented a resolution to re-advertise for proposals for grading Tracy street from the Brown road to the city line. This was adopted as was also a resolution from the same member directing the street commissioner to remove obstructions from Miami street.

Mr. Doner introduced a resolution, which was adopted, extending the time one year, in which the Toledo Electric Street Railway company shall pay assessments for improving Morris street and Indiana avenue.

Mr. Swain introduced a resolution to pave Twenty-second street from Monroe street to Woodruff avenue. Referred to the street committee.

President Hassenzahl handed in a resolution stating that the erection of the new market shed at the Superior street market left no room for loads of hay and wood and requiring the street commissioner to keep such loads from obstructing any streets. This was adopted.

An ordinance was passed to accept a re-plat of part of Western avenue addition.

Ordinances were passed to turnpike Enright, Brigham, Doyle and Pomeroy streets between Comstock and Ketcham avenues.

The ordinance to improve the alley between Cherry and Orange streets from Ontario to Dove Lane was passed.

Resolutions were adopted to grade Clark street from Woodville to Third street; to grade Third street from Oak street to Clark street and Utah street from Woodville to First street.

An ordinance to widen Scottwood avenue was passed.

Mr. Walker moved that the contract with W. T. Ryan for grading Dawson street be rejected on account of a small informality. This motion was lost and the contract confirmed.

The ordinance establishing the new fire limits was on the schedule, but as it is not yet prepared it did not come before the board.

A resolution was adopted directing the street commissioner to remove obstructions from the alley between Buffalo and Ash streets.

P. H. Degnan was granted permission to erect scales on Water street.

All business from the board of aldermen was passed, including the ordinance to refund $120,000 of the gas trustees' certificates of indebtedness into 4 1-2 per cent. bonds, which passed unanimously, without one word of discussion.

The resolution asking the legislature to pass an enabling act to allow Toledo to issue bonds to the amount of $8,000 for harbor dredging was adopted.

Mr. Morganthaler moved to reconsider the ordinance fixing the price of illuminating gas, which was carried.

Mr. Neuendorf then moved an amendment to the ordinance fixing the price of gas at $1 per thousand feet instead of $1 10. This was lost: Ayes—Bay, Caldwell, Doner, Neuendorf, Rutherford and Hassenzahl—6; noes—Lee, Morganthaler, Morris, Schmuhl, Swain, Taylor, Walker, Pheatt, Gill—9. Mr. Pheatt arrived just in time to vote. Mr. Gill voted aye, but changed his vote to no.

The ordinance was then read the third time and passed, Messrs. Doner, Neuendorf, Rutherford and Hassenzahl voting no.

The general street railway ordinance providing for gates and conductors on all cars came up as unfinished business on its third reading.

Mr. Caldwell moved as an amendment that conductors be not required on short cars until after June 1, but the motion was lost.

The motion was then lost, Messrs. Caldwell, Pheatt and Swain voting no.

DEATH INSTEAD OF WEDDING.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 1.—At Ball Flat, Cherokee county, Mrs. Robert Atwell, a young bride of 17 years, was dressed in her bridal costume and ready for church yesterday. While warming at the fire before going out her dress caught fire, and she was so horribly burned that death ensued in less than an hour.

THE GAS TRUSTEES

Hold an Afternoon Meeting—More Certificates Issued.

The regular meeting of the natural gas board was held yesterday afternoon instead of in the evening, and considerable general routine work was transacted.

Mr. Backus, from the committee on claims, reported bills amounting to $1,293, and the same were ordered paid.

The final estimate of R. W. Smith, $701, was reported and ordered settled on condition that Mr. Smith accept gas certificates in payment.

The report on the final estimate of Kerlin Bros. was presented.

The total balance due is $10,992, and Mr. Backus objected to paying the same unless Mr. Kerlin should pay in cash for materials received by him from the city and accept in payment for the balance due him gas certificates. Mr Backus made the point that the cash account due Mr. Kerlin for work performed in the field should be held to cover the account due the city by Mr. Kerlin.

The report was referred back to the auditor with orders to square the accounts. A balance of $625 due Kerlin Bros., for connecting wells, was ordered credited to Kerlin Bros. A similar balance of $3,598 was ordered paid in certificates.

The Lafayette Construction company presented final estimate, $10,031, for making connections, and the report, after a long discussion, was referred to the manager.

Mr. Greene, from the committee on city plant, presented a set of rules and regulations for connecting lines with houses.

A motion to refer was lost, and a motion to adopt was also lost.

A communication from the Hall Steam Pump company, relative to a gas pumping apparatus, was read and filed.

The report of the board for January and December were approved and ordered forwarded to the mayor and common council.

Archie Farmer agreed to put in a gas pump on a 30-days' test. The matter was referred to the manager and superintendent.

Secretary Brown requested leave to hold the office of collector of the Royal Arcanum in conjunction with his other duties.

The subject was referred to the manager for his approval.

Receipts amounting to $446 were announced from the city auditor's office.

HAY MARKET WANTED.

Driven Off the Superior Street Market,

They Have No Home and Are Wanderers on the Face of the Earth.

Heretofore it has been customary for farmers and others having hay, straw and wood to sell to stand with their loads on the Superior street Market space at the southerly end of the old market shed. The new iron market shed which is being erected now occupies all of that space, and leaves no room for the hay and straw.

For several weeks these loads have been standing along the curb at the Market space and on other streets in the vicinity, much to the annoyance of people doing business and living along these streets, and much complaint has been made.

There is plenty of room at the Cherry street market, which is wholly unoccupied, but the farmers are opposed to going there, and say they cannot sell as well, consequently they persist in hanging about the Superior street market.

Ever since the erection of the new shed commenced the chief of police has had a great deal of trouble to keep these large loads away from places where they were not wanted, and he has tried to drive them to the Cherry street market, but they refuse to go.

At the meeting of the council last night, however, President Hassenzahl introduced a resolution, which was adopted, that will end this trouble if enforced. The resolution recites the reason for keeping these loads off the Superior street market, and requires the street commisssioner to see that loads of hay, straw and wood do not stand on any street or alley otherwise than a regular market. As the Cherry street market is the only public place where there is room for them, this is where they must go.

There is some talk among the hay men of renting a vacant lot in the vicinity of the Superior street market, and keeping their loads on this property.

WEIL AND LA ABRA.

The Celebrated Claim Again Acted Upon.

The Senate Passes the Bill to Refund the Money Illegally Taken From Mexico.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The bill referring to the court of claims the question of the fraudulent character of the awards made against Mexico in the La Abra case passed the senate by a vote of 43 yeas to 5 nays yesterday.

The names of these cases are probably more familiar than the facts. Circumstances were disclosed in the discussion which, if woven into a work of fiction, would be deemed almost too extravagant for belief.

The La Abra case had for its basis a silver mine in Mexico, owned and worked by a company having its headquarters in New York. It was charged and proved before the Mexican commission by a continuous chain of affidavits that during the troubles which attended the overthrow of the Maximilian government the Mexican authorities arrested the superintendent of the mine, drove out his American assistants, and took forcible possession of the property. It was satisfactorily shown that the profits of the mine were about $1,000,000 a year, and that at least $1,000,000 in pay ore was lying on the dump when the Mexicans took possession. On this evidence, which was then unrefuted, Sir Edward Thornton, the British ambassador to the United States, who acted as umpire, gave a judgment against Mexico for $750,000, and Mexico paid the money to our state department. When about a quarter of this money had been distributed somebody who did not think he was getting his share obtained possession of the letter press copy books of the company kept at the mine and sold them to the Mexican government.

These conclusively showed that the mine had never been seized at all, but that it had been voluntarily abandoned because the ore was found to be so valueless that it did not begin to pay the cost for smelting. The whole claim was shown to be a fabrication of the ex-superintendent, who is now dead, inspired by the establishment of the mixed commission to consider claims of American and Mexican citizens against the government of the two countries arising out of the war.

The Weil claim had not even as much foundation as this. It was based on the allegation that a man named Benjamin Weil, who lived in New Orleans and was engaged in running cotton through Mexico during the war, had lost a heavy mule train and 700 bales of cotton at the time when cotton was worth nearly 40 cents a pound, by their being captured and taken possession of by the Mexican liberal forces. The proofs were complete. Sir Edward Thornton awarded him about $250,000 in compensation for his loss. Weil was mixed up in business with a number of other firms scattered over the south, who had agreed to pool their issues. Here again a quarrel over the disposition of the proceeds caused an examination to be made of the books and letters of these firms and the fact was established that neither mules, wagons nor cotton had ever had any existence except in the minds of men who supplied the testimony on which the award was made.

Seven hundred thousand dollars of the amount thus obtained in these two cases remains undistributed, a special deposit in gold in the subtreasury in New York.

Four successive presidents have told congress that the national honor demands that this money should be refunded to Mexico, but no action has yet been had. The bill before the senate provides for a suit to be brought before the court of claims to declare the fraudulent character of the claims, so that the unexpended money can be paid back to Mexico. The indications are that it will pass the senate by a nearly unanimous vote. Its progress in the house will be watched with interest.

A curious fact was stated by Senator Morgan in the debate that only a few hundred dollars of the quarter of a million distributed under the award have reached the widow of Weil or the stockholders in the La Abra Mining company. The rest has been absorbed by claim agents and attorneys.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Several Matters of More or Less Importance Passed Upon.

After a short executive session the board of education was called to order last evening.

The resignation of Alfred F. Wood as principal of the deaf mute school was read. It had been sent from Alabama, where Mr. Wood went to spend his vacation, and being offered a similar position, accepted it. Miss Georgiana Miller was recommended by the letter as a competent successor.

Mr. Compton commented favorably upon Miss Miller's ability. The matter was referred to the teachers' committee with power to act.

Brown, Eager & Hull submitted a bill of $163.99 for freight on school books sold to the schools, as provided by law. Referred to the finance committee, with power to act.

Superintendent Compton read a report of the Saturday sewing course, recently arranged. It shows 72 pupils in the Franklin school, 75 in the Nebraska school and 83 in the Broadway, aggregating a total attendance of 230 pupils who are taking advantage of this department.

A bill for $148 for practice books for penmanship was presented and paid.

Superintendent Compton spoke in favor of abolishing the slate in the schools and adopting pen and ink. It was his opinion that this constant practice would do more to promote penmanship than any course ever pursued. Referred to the teachers' committee, with power to act.

Superintendent of Buildings Conrad reported a scarcity of gas at the Stickney avenue and Illinois street schools, and that he had exchanged the burners for grates and was now burning soft coal. No action was taken.

Two propositions to furnish anatomical charts were submitted. The Yeager chart was offered at $25 each, and another, published by the Central School Supply company at $37.50. The board was divided, and no action was taken.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $24,309.66.

AFTER DINNER SPEAKERS.

As to dinners, have you noticed that the art of after dinner speaking is being cultivated by womankind? Her readiness of tongue is proverbial, and hers, too, is the "woman's wit," so why not? At club dinners, annual banquets and the various formalities of the feminine dining world she responds to toasts as neatly as possible, and by and by we shall have a feminine post-prandial orator.—Boston Post.

A PRACTICAL ILLUSTRATION.

He was so young in years and experience that his self-confidence had as yet received no severe shaking. He had been but a short time in the city; a fact that he thought militated against him, and which he accordingly strove to conceal even from himself. But in that short time he had obtained a clerkship in a wholesale house; he had given his employers satisfaction, and had been complimented by them. So he felt sure of steady employment and of ultimate advancement, and was very well satisfied with himself.

He was on the night force, and did not leave the store until 3 o'clock mornings. Then, in pleasant weather, he would walk up to his boarding place. He had the vigor of untried youth, and liked the exercise. And he could walk the streets at that hour without jostling, and could think as he walked.

This morning his thoughts were pleasant. They took the form of hopes. They possessed him so fully that, looking ahead a few years, he perceived himself a rich man. He had now a position; that was the first victory. And he was already living within his income; that was the first necessity. He had something saved already; it wasn't much, but he had earned it all. The dollars seemed of double weight on that account. And this hoard was growing; there was nearly one hundred dollars. He had it in a box at his boarding-place, for he would not risk carrying such a sum in his pocket. When it was an even hundred dollars he would bank it. That would be an excellent start; there were plenty of rich men, he had heard, who started with less. He resolved to make deposits of a hundred dollars each as often as he might. That was the way to achieve independence.

Independence! He cut the air with his walking stick. He felt strong at the thought—strong to resist the city's lures for his earnings. He stepped along more briskly and firmly. There were so many drains on a man's purse unless the man kept it tied tightly. There was that habit of almsgiving; senseless, he told himself. He had guiltily slipped a nickel to a beggar a few times; but that was when he was looking for work himself, and—well, he had a sort of fellow-feeling for the unlucky devils. But hereafter none of that; he would be governed by the law of self-preservation. The firm he worked for recognized that rule of life; they had a card displayed conspicuously that read, "All applicants for aid are referred to the charity organizations." How easily he might fritter away amounts he could not afford on beggars, imposters—people he knew nothing about, with whom he had now nothing in common! Hereafter when a hand was stretched out to him, he would tell the applicant to go to the—the charity organization. There the pitiful story might be sifted; he really hadn't time for it if he would become independent.

He strode smartly along, imbued with the sense of coming success. He was in the heat of one of those moments common to mankind when he could with gravity believe almost any great thing of himself. But the idea of wealth predominated. His very boot heels clinked like dropping metal on the flags. If the facts did not warrant an aggravated case of wealth, he at least suffered all the symptoms.

A young fellow came down the street with a quick step, and met the one coming up near an electric light. Both stopped. The one coming down opened his mouth to speak, stammered a little, and then went on with a clear, old country accent: "Beg pardon, sir! I came over from Scotland three weeks ago—I thought I should fall into a situation—and now my last cent is gone."

He made the bare curt statement with no taint of professional whine. He was either the worst amateur or the ablest expert. He was dressed well enough, and he looked straight at the one coming up as he spoke. And the one coming up did not take his eyes from the one coming down. Accosted at that hour of the morning, he naturally held himself on guard. His erect position had its effect on his mind, and he rallied it to the support of his newly-made resolution. He had wavered a little, for somehow he happened to think that this fellow had walked about all night for want of a place to sleep in.

"You are in hard luck," said he, in an ironically sympathetic tone. He flushed as he heard his own voice, but he stood by his colors.

"I am, indeed," said the other, straight and honest.

The one coming up noticed the lack of a cringing "sir." Did the fellow, then, presume on an equality? This would never do. He must cut it short.

"I don't see how I can help you."

"Sir?"

"I don't see how I can help you."

Then the one coming up passed on, and putting his hand in his pocket, clutched some nickels there as a moral restorative, something hard for his resolution to lean against.

Well done! He could congratulate himself. The ice was broken. That was the way to deal with such fellows; turn them off to— He had forgotten to tell him where to go. Well, never mind. He would soon get used to the thing—he was not likely to want for chances—and then good-by to imposition. It was time. He had been in the city nearly a month—three weeks—

It was three weeks ago that other fellow came! They must have started in together to win fortune. Well, some up, and others down! His own success was undoubtedly due to superior qualities, which he could not name, but whose existence he felt within himself. They gave him a comfortable feeling all through his person. The sense of completeness extended to his clothes; he felt positive that his coat filled out well in the chest, and his trousers hung correctly at the knees. These were outward marks of inward superiority. But if he had failed—now that would have been hard luck, eh?

It would indeed.

Then failure was due to luck, not inferiority. Which was really the better men, he or that other one? The electric light had shown no defects in that other. Suppose, now, by luck, the thing were reversed. Nonsense, of course; but suppose it. It ran in his head, and he could not help it. Would that other have said to him, "I don't see how I can help you?"

"Sir?"

It was provoking that he could not get the tone of that "sir" out of his head. Compared with the fellow's other words, the difference in tone was the difference between hope and despair. He would wager the fellow had not told the story before. He had appeared interested, and then coolly killed the awakened hope. That was an act of moral murder. Why did he let the fellow speak to him? Why did he stop? Was it because the fellow was honest, and he intuitively knew it?

And he had said, "I can't help you."

Why, that was a lie! He could have helped. A dime would have bought a bed, another a breakfast. He had occasion to find that out for himself. And at that time he would have given charity to almost any beggar, saying, "I have more than he, anyway." And now he could have given 20 dimes and not had to deny himself anything. The principle on which he was acting was right, but somehow the application was unsatisfactory.

How would it seem to lose all he had—that little hoard in the box—the foundation of his fortune? Suppose he should be so hungry and tired and despairing in a city full that he should confess to the first chance soul he met—taking the chance of its being a soul, not a mean man—"My last cent is gone." Not a pleasant feeling, eh? Well, he wouldn't think of it. Banish the accusing thoughts. Now to bed and sleep.

But first he would look at that box and its contents. The sight would be a sedative, after what had happened. He got the box out, unlocked it, and looked within. Looked again. Shook it. The box was empty. He grew dizzy, and sank into a chair. His last cent was gone. That was hard luck? It was, indeed. And he did not see how it could be helped.—Harper's Weekly.

Poultry Raising for Women.

Who are the actual poultry raisers of the country? One-fourth of our whole population congregates in the cities, we are told; it follows, then, that the other three-fourths are to be found outside the cities—that is, mainly on the farms. On every farm we see poultry—at least hens—and the real "practical poultry raisers" on the larger proportions of these farms are the farmers' wives and daughters.

Why not admit the truth, then, that poultry keeping is already a business for women by virtue of present occupation? What other business can our country show, aside from housekeeping, that counts so many women in its ranks? —women, too, who follow it all their lives, though marriage even does not cut them off from it, as is the case with most occupations; nay, it rather enlarges their opportunities.

Is it to be supposed for a moment that all these women would do all this work for scores of years in succession if it did not pay? "A paying business for women" has come to be a catch-word for all the women writers of the country, wherewith to gain the favor of the editors of the household publications; yet how few of them have thought of this occupation as an exponent of the taking topic.

But the masculine element say that that women do not make a business of rearing poultry. To be sure they fuss around, raise a few chicks each year, and perhaps get eggs enough to buy the family groceries, with possibly a mere trifle over for spending money, but no one is foolish enough to suppose that it pays. It amuses the women no doubt, and furnishes the luxury of strictly fresh eggs and tender chickens for the home table; but it is sheer nonsense to suppose that it pays as a cash investment.

Because the flock of hens may have paid but a few dollars money in hand above the cost of keeping the farmer considers it of little profit. He forgets, too, the multiplying power of the littles; he does not consider that when nearly every farm in the country can show the few dollars of profit, the aggregate is enormous. As a result, he almost refuses to believe that nearly the farm products of poultry in the United States amount to $200,000,000 a year, making no mention of the value of fancy stock. He disputes the fact that the value of the products from the women's hens (the pin money that usually goes to buy groceries and clothes for the children), is more than that of the oat crop, and more than twice as great as that of the potato crop that costs him so much backaching work. How can this be true? Yet the matter is simple enough; it is only a working out of the old proverb, "Many a nickle makes a muckle," for nearly every farm housewife has a finger in this (chicken) pie.

In the face of doubts and ridicule, it has sometimes been stated tentatively that probably more money could be made from a flock of a hundred hens than some farmers make from their farms. Some more brave or more rash than others have ventured to make this a positive assertion—but without proof. Lately, however, it is reported by a woman in the south, that in some portions of Tennessee where the soil is sandy and poor for grain crops, but just the thing for chicken "crops"—the wives do, as a matter of fact, make more clear profit from their poultry than their liege lords do from the sale of all other farm products. Only for the fact that the said lords refuse to credit those troublesome hens with such doughty deeds, this precious pin money would no doubt have long ago been diverted into its proper (?) channels.—C. S. Valentine, in Farm Journal.

How to Make Nuts Germinate.

The only reason why many persons fail to make such nuts as pecans, hickory, English walnuts, and chestnuts germinate when planted is, that they allow them to get thoroughly dried before they are placed in the ground.

For pecans, shellbark hickory, butternuts, filberts and other hard shelled kinds there is no better place to store them during the winter than in heaps of sand piled up on some shady spot in the open ground. First place a layer of sand, then a layer of nuts, and proceed in this way until your stock of nuts is exhausted, and cover the heap with six inches of good soil or sods, and leave all undisturbed until spring. Then take out the nuts and plant in drills. If there is danger of mice and squirrels carrying away the nuts, place them in well-drained boxes, covering with wire netting.

Chestnuts may be stored in the same way, but the sand should be clean and the boxes set where the water from melting snows will quickly drain off. Fresh imported English walnuts buried in the fall or any time in the early winter will usually germinate quite freely.

Imported filberts are sometimes gathered before quite mature, and for this reason fail to grow; but if the kernels are plump when obtained there is no danger of failure if kept cool and moist during the winter.—American Agriculturist.

People who value time always use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to get rid of a cold.

Salvation Oil, the great pain-eradicator, cures rheumatism and neuralgia. 25 cents.

Feeding for Hogs.

To keep a hen in good condition for laying she should never have a full crop during the day. It is not wrong to give a light meal of mixed food warm in the morning, in the trough, but such meal should be only one-fourth the quantity the hens require. They should go away from the trough unsatisfied, and should then seek their food, deriving it grain by grain, engaging in healthy exercise in order to obtain it, and in such circumstances the food will be passed into the gizzard slowly and be better digested. Gradually the hen will accumulate sufficient food to provide for the night, going on the roost with a full crop, where she can leisurely forward it from the crop to the gizzard.

Feeding soft food leads to many errors on the part of the beginner, causing him to overfeed and pamper his hens, and by it they will reach a condition that is entirely antagonistic to laying. It is much better to feed hard grains only than to feed from a trough, unless the soft food is carefully measured. A quart of mixed ground grain, moistened and in a crumbly condition, should be sufficient for 40 hens as a "starter" for the morning, but two quarts of whole grain should be scattered in litter for them to seek and secure for themselves.—Columbus Rural World.

TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gum, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Crop Rotation and Spraying.

It is a law of plant culture that the continuous growing of any one crop upon a given area of soil tends to the concentration of the enemies of that crop—whether of insects or of fungi. With annual crops, like some of those of the garden and grainfield, the remedy is more easily applied than in the case of fruits.

There is a strong inclination to grow the crop for which the soil is naturally best fitted. Thus the onion-grower desires to keep his best onion land continuously in onions, and the smut finally increases and ruins his crop and future prospects.

Sweet potatoes can be grown to greatest profit only upon a special soil, in limited areas; and constant cropping has permitted the soil-rot to increase to such an extent that the crop is often a failure.

The same is true of clover and other crops, but more particularly of those that are susceptible to some root disease. It therefore follows that in the serious consideration of our subject, the importance of a judicious management of crops should never be overlooked, and a system of rotation adopted that will bring the greatest health—other things remaining reasonable and satisfactory. This continuous change of crop, united to full rations of available plant food and proper sanitation, will do much to lighten the labors of the fungicidal applications, and render all applications, when necessary, to the greatest benefit.

Let the spraying of crops with compounds of copper, etc., come after the fair thing has been done for that crop under the head of farm or garden management. Here, as elsewhere, the ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Do not let me be misunderstood, for I am a full believer in the virtues of fungicides. There are many places where they pay and pay well, but they cannot do everything. They may ward off destructive diseases, as the copper-salts for the black-rot of the grape, but they alone will by no means bring a profitable crop.

Everything else needs to be done for the vines that will bring a full fruitage, and then it will pay to save the crop from premature decay. And finally, to carry my point one step farther when the plants have been surrounded by the best sanitary conditions it is possible that the application of fungicides may sometimes be omitted.

However it may be a long time before all these points are settled, and in the meantime nothing is lost by turning them over in our minds.—Prof. Byron D. Halstead, before the Ohio Horticultural society.

My friend, look here! You know how weak and nervous your wife is, and you know that Carter's Iron Pills will relieve her, now why not be fair about it and buy her a box?

FATAL DAYS.

The reflections indulged in last week respecting the unlucky title held by the late prince have been followed by the discovery that Thursday, the day on which he died, is an unlucky day for English royalty. Four sovereigns, Henry VIII., Edward VI., Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth died on Thursday; but clearly a far more fatal day is Saturday. At any rate, during the past 200 years, for instance, William III. died on Saturday, March 18, 1702; Queen Anne died on Saturday, March 14, 1714; George I. died on Saturday, June 10, 1727; George II. died on Saturday, October 25, 1760; George III. died on Saturday, January 29, 1820; George VI. died on Saturday, June 26, 1830; the Dutchess of Kent the present queen's mother, died on Saturday, March 16, 1861; the Prince Consort, Queen Victoria's husband, died on Saturday, December 14, 1861, and the Princess Alice, her daughter, died on Saturday, December 14, 1878.—N. Y. Sun.

BRILLIANT YOUNG DEMOCRAT.

When Pitt at 21 stood up in the house of commons to make his first and unpredmeditated speech his elders listened in interested silence, and after he had finished Burke said: "It is not a chip of the old block but the old block itself." A scene somewhat similar took place in the house of representatives the other day when Senator Hoar, the young Massachusetts congressman, made his maiden effort at oratory before a national audience. He has a clear, ringing and commanding voice, and though he only spoke for two minutes he so charmed the house that a veteran member, Mr. Dingley, of Maine, called for further explanation, much to the satisfaction of everybody, because it gave Mr. Hoar an opportunity to continue his remarks. Mr. Hoar spoke without a tremor, without hesitation and with perfect confidence in himself.—Washington Post.

SPECIALTIES:
Female,
Lung,
Private and
Chronic Diseases.
CATARRH, so very common in this climate, is not a local disease as is generally supposed, but is constitutional, showing itself locally in some of the mucous membranes of the body, and to remove it permanently you have to remove the cause. In fact the only way of treating any disease is by removing the cause that produces it, and nature will do the rest. This is the manner in which we treat all diseases under our specialties and the secret of our success is in the ability to determine the starting point or cause of your trouble.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS OR LOSS OF MANHOOD, AND ERRORS OF YOUTH, POSITIVELY CURED.
PILES permanently cured without the use of a knife or any surgical operation whatever. POSITIVELY NO CASE TAKEN THAT CANNOT BE CURED.
Correspondence accompanied by 4 cents in stamps will be held with the strictest secrecy and will be promptly answered.

The wreck was reported by the steamer Sumatra, from Shields, Eng., which arrived at the Delaware breakwater today. The sunken vessel is probably a coast steamer. It is supposed that she sank on Saturday night. Those on board were probably taken off by a passenger vessel.

A WORK OF ART.

The catalogue just completed by The Bee Job Rooms, of the Ketcham Farm, for Geo. H. Ketcham, proprietor, is pronounced by all who have seen it to be the most artistic work of its kind ever published, and reflects credit upon Mr. Ketcham, and also upon the Bee Job Rooms.

It contains some seventy-five pages, on a fine laid book paper, and a fine lithograph of Barenstein by the Gast Lithographing and Engraving Co., New York, represented by G. W. C. Hadley, of the Bee Job Rooms, giving a complete pedigree of all the horses owned by Mr. Ketcham; also a description of the Ketcham Farm, and is surmounted by a steel plate cover, by the Robinson Engraving Co., Boston (also represented by Mr. Hadley, of this city), and we would recommend anyone needing anything in the line of printing to call and consult The Bee Job Rooms before placing order.

A TRUTH FROM "TRUTH."

The New York Central is really first-class in all its appointments. Think of it, it has four tracks laid with the heaviest of steel rails in the most substantial manner, and when you are sleeping or lounging around in one of their superb Wagner cars, and flying along at the rate of nearly a mile a minute, as some of their fast expresses do, you will hardly realize that you are moving, so excellent is the permanent way. A short time ago a special train made the run from New York to Buffalo at the rate of a mile a minute the entire distance.
